FEAR BRITISH FLIERS LOST

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR CALIFORNIA FLOOD VICTIMS

Red Cross Unites All Sections of U. S., Says Rogers

(Special To The News)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15.—There's your wonderful Red Cross on the job again. The Mississippi Valley, Vermont, Florida or California, no one knows when their section may be next.

Just think, four Sundays ago I drove all over that beautiful and peaceful valley in California and visited the Harry Carey ranch.

Florida has been mighty nice about it. Yesterday they headlined it as an earthquake, just through force of habit. But today they have stuck to the truth.

We have great sectional rivalries. But it don't take much to wipe it out when something happens.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Some of the time worn institutions in this city, the protruding steps from buildings along the sidewalks of North Mercer street, are being removed. This is a good move on the part of the city council. There is no reason for obstructions into the sidewalk, such as these have been for years. The steps are being removed primarily as a result of the decision of council to widen the cartway of Mercer street by moving the curb back. This will narrow the sidewalk and means that obstructions along the buildings have to be removed.

New Castle city dads should carry out the program announced yesterday of brightening up the city hall in preparation for the third class city convention in the summer. While there are many facilities in the city that are modern and will make a fine impression upon the visitors, the city hall is not one of them. However, there is nothing to prevent having the building in spic and span condition for the meetings.

Interest is not lagging in ocean hops. There were many calls to The News asking as to whether or not any word had been received from the daring British fliers who were attempting a non-stop flight across the Atlantic, towards the United States.

It must be an inherent belief of one newsie that all men are essentially honest. For, at times, he leaves his stand on the corner of Washington and Mill streets entirely unguarded. People get their papers, make their change from a cigar box, and go on their way happy. And the man says that he seldom loses a penny out of it.

Patrolmen of the State Highway department have become active in Lawrence county in the matter of enforcing the headlight law. Last evening, Pa Newc was stopped three times and asked if the headlights were adjusted. To which he sweetly replied yes, and proved it.

As an afterthought to Rotarians who participated in the "war garden" on the Wilmington road, the idea of which was to raise enough potatoes to relieve the war shortage, the Hon. George T. Weingartner, who now owns the land, says that they might at least be good enough to come out and try to undo the damage that was done during the late years of the war.

One of the many ways to get new uniforms for the High school band was suggested to this column this morning by Jack Dunfee. He says that perhaps if the band would have a concert, almost every one in the city would support it. Or, they could sell tickets, the holder of the lucky number to accompany them to the contest. And what do you think of that.

Up at The Castleton they have put an electric sign out in front of the coffee shop.

Of late, the infant panhandlers, or racketeers have become quite a problem in the city. At night these children will stand in a door way, crying for all they are worth. When approached, they tell a pitiful story

Fear Countless Bodies Of Dead Swept Into Sea

Known Dead And Missing In California Dam Disaster Mounts To 361

FIVE INQUESTS INTO DISASTER UNDER WAY

Seven Separate Investigations Are Also In Progress After Catastrophe

By ARTHUR L. MAREK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, March 15. — Amidst the ruin and havoc of one of the most appalling disasters in recent years, the known dead of Santa Clara Valley were assembled today in crude morgues while sorrowing witnesses waited to tell how they died when trapped by the flood waters unleashed by the broken St. Francis Dam.

Four inquests were ordered held simultaneously today at Fillmore, Moorpark, Santa Paula and Oxnard in drug stores and dance halls which have been converted into temporary morgues.

Many Unknown Dead

A fifth inquest for those who lost their lives in San Francisquito Canyon will be held here next week when Coroner Frank A. Nance will conduct an inquisition to fix the blame for the tragedy.

Meanwhile, the unknown dead of the devastated valley lay buried beneath tons of silt and debris as the gigantic search for unrecovered bodies pushed on.

The toll of human lives taken in the catastrophe stood today at 361 persons, officially reported dead and missing.

How many others perished in the flood may never be known. Authorities declared the belief that a countless number of bodies were swept on into the sea.

Four Fold Task

With seven separate investigations under way to determine what caused the huge dam across San Francisquito Canyon to go out, workers in

Coast-To-Coast Racers Keep On

Thirty-Eight-Mile Lap Is Course Laid Out For Today

NEWTON IS STILL LEADING FIELD

By LELAND C. LEWIS
International News Service Special Correspondent

PEACH SPRINGS, Ariz., March 15.—C. C. "Cross Country" Pyle's eastbound marathoners dug their toes into the gravel as they left Peach Springs and pushed on to their 12th control at Seligman, 38 miles distant, today.

Arduous Dash

The dash, though not so long as yesterday's romp from Kingman to Peach Springs, promised to be equally as arduous as any to date as they touched a 5,400-foot altitude on the sweep to the continental divide.

Last night's camp gossip found Arthur Newton, the Rhodesian rambler, and leader in the grind today by approximately eight hours, the chief topic of conversation.

"He'll croak when he does the real climbing," was the comment heard on many sides. Newton's elapsed time on checking in at Peach Springs, 397.4 miles from Los Angeles, was 61 hours, 30 minutes. Newton scouted opinion that he was on the verge of collapse.

Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., youth, and fourth into Peach Springs, now holds second position with an elapsed time of 69:07:02.

Arnie Souminen, Detroit, is third, with 70:29:15 as his total time. John Cronick, Saskatoon, Canada, is fourth.

DEATH RECORD

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Lee, 84, 407 Park avenue.

Birds Fly Into Home; Eat Nuts From Table

Those who know the haunts of the beautiful cardinals or red birds, as they are commonly called, know that they are usually found in the thick woods and are among the shyest birds found.

But by showing them a little kindness they will respond like every other living creature.

Mrs. Darley VanDivort of Milton street has a pair of these lovely birds to come every morning to her dining room window for their breakfast. She usually opens the window for them, but in case it is closed the birds will peck with such vigor as to almost break the glass. When they are let in they will perch on the serving table near the window and eat nuts and apples. After they have eaten they will fly to the trees nearby.

The mother bird is a soft taupe color, with a flaming red bill. Her mate's plumage is a beautiful scarlet.

They seem to like to live on Milton street, as they are never disturbed, not even by the saucy squirrel that lives in the oak tree across the way, nor the big Angora cat that roams around.

"Mystery Woman" Found At Pulaski Is Puzzle To Sheriff Reynolds

Mrs. Sophia Goloski is the name given by a "mystery woman," now being held in the county jail, while Sheriff H. M. Reynolds is endeavoring to get in touch with her relatives, presumed to live at Castle Shannon, near Pittsburgh.

The woman was found wandering on the railroad tracks at Pulaski by former Deputy Sheriff Merl Boyd, and was brought to the county jail.

She appeared to be somewhat dazed and was unable to give any explanation of herself, further than that she is the wife of Charles Goloski of Castle Shannon. She did not seem to know how she got to Pulaski.

She carried a bundle containing some clothing and a large wallet. In the wallet was about $20 in cash, three gold watches, a half dozen gold rings, tied in a handkerchief, and some papers.

Among the papers was a marriage certificate dated May 4th, 1903, and also a certificate of baptism, showing that she and her husband Charles Goloski, had been baptized by the Rev. Thomas Zachorski at St. Patrick's church Canonsburg, Pa.

There were also several bank books. One was made out in the name of Charles Goloski, another in the name of Sophia Goloski and another made out jointly to husband and wife. Two of them were savings account books and the other a checking account book. According to the savings account books there was about $1200 on deposit.

The woman said that she is 49 years old. She was fairly well dressed. Sheriff Reynolds is endeavoring to get in touch with her husband or some one who knows her.

FINAL DAY TO FILE INCOME TAX RETURNS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 15.—Despite depression in some lines of business, federal income tax receipts in this district for 1927 likely will surpass those of the previous year, D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue, announced today, the last day on which returns may be filed without a penalty being imposed.

Both receipts and taxable returns were larger to date than for the corresponding period last year, according to Heiner, because of the bureau ruling no figures have been made public.

Most of the tax returns are being received by mail, the 11th hour crowds of former years being missing this year.

SCORE, PLEASE? THAT'S ENOUGH!

New Castle and Duquesne high schools play at Pittsburgh Friday evening for the championship.

There will be hundreds of calls at The News for the score, as usual.

It is suggested that if the persons making the call eliminate a lot of unnecessary talk, that service will be expediated.

It is not necessary to say, "Please give me the score of the New Castle-Duquesne game," or anything of that sort.

Make it short.

Simply say, "Score Please."

The News telephone operators will know what score you want and will give you the score of the New Castle-Duquesne game.

Fire Destroys Large Church At Rochester

Parsonage Of Methodist Church Is Also Completely Ruined Today

ESTIMATE LOSS AS NEAR $175,000

Beaver Firemen Aid In Battle Against Flames; Pastor Loses All Effects

(International News Service)

ROCHESTER, Pa., March 15.—Fire destroyed the First Methodist Episcopal church and parsonage here today, at a loss of $175,000.

Early this morning the Rev. R. B. Callahan, pastor; his wife and son Richard, 10, released from three weeks' quarantine yesterday, were aroused by Dr. S. H. Piersol, whose property adjoins the church. They were awakened in time to escape, but lost all their effects.

Firemen found that the fire started in the furnace room and was burning in one Sunday school classroom when they arrived. Firemen had difficulty in locating the base of the fire.

Wearing gas masks, they fought the blaze from vantage points inside the church until part of the roof caved in.

Other Cities Send Aid

With this, the entire structure became a mass of flames. Aid was summoned from Beaver, and the combined forces fought the flames until five a. m., when they were controlled.

When a small tower near the parsonage collapsed, several firemen had narrow escapes. The fire left only the belfry and a portion of the walls standing in the mass of black ruins.

A five-year improvement program has just been completed on the church, built in 1912. New insurance was to be written this week to replace the $35,000 originally carried. Officials of the church will meet tonight to discuss plans for a new edifice.

Rev. Callahan and his family had been ill and services last night were the first he had conducted for several weeks.

Dinner Club Is Being Planned For Consistory

Committee To Meet On Friday Evening To Complete Plans

For some time Hon. William H. Dunlap, commander-in-chief of the New Castle Consistory has contemplated the organization of a weekly dinner club among the members of the Consistory and their wives. It has been the opinion of Mr. Dunlap that such a club would go far towards promoting sociability and friendship among the membership and acting upon that thought he has appointed a committee of 25 members to handle the affair.

Attorney William J. Moffatt has been named as general chairman of the dinner club and the first meeting of the committee will be held on Friday March 16 in the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

The idea of the club is to hold a dinner on one night of each week with a program of entertainment following. Members from the Beaver valley and other surrounding territory have expressed themselves as well pleased with the idea and will co-operate to make the club a success.

Uncle Sam Collecting Over Billion Dollars From Tax Payers Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Uncle Sam is collecting over a billion dollars today in income taxes, proceeds of two bond issues, customs and from miscellaneous sources.

The day's expenditures at the treasury department amounted to over $655,000,000. Securities amounting to $560,000,000 were retired. Interest payments exceeded $83,000,000. Ordinary government overhead was about $10,000,000.

In a last minute rush to file income tax returns before the deadline at the close of business tonight it is estimated more than a half million persons besieged congested offices of collectors of internal revenue. Returns already have been filed by 4,000,000 tax payers.

The March income tax collection was estimated at approximately $475,000,000 as compared to $516,000,000 in March, 1927.

Today's return indicates a total tax collection for the year of something over $2,150,000,000.

Mrs. Alice Corbett Tells Story In Court

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 15.—Mrs. Alice Corbett, formerly of New Castle, Pa., told in court late Wednesday how she refused to prosecute her husband, even after hearing that he had married another woman, the former Marquene Stevenson, social beauty and heiress.

Mrs. Corbett testified at the trial of her suit for $250,000 against the heiress, who now is the Countess Andrea Marco Guiseppe Soranzo. Mrs. Corbett alleges the countess "stole" her husband while Mrs. Corbett was in a hospital.

"I first learned of my husband's second marriage through the society columns of the newspapers," Mrs. Corbett testified.

"Why didn't you prosecute him for bigamy?" counsel asked.

"I didn't want to send the father of my child to prison," she replied. Corbett now is serving a term in Sing Sing prison for larceny.

Mrs. Corbett's sister-in-law, Helen Corbett, testified that she warned the countess that Corbett had a wife and child.

The society beauty replied, according to the witness:

"Forget it. My father is influential. How much money does this wife person want?"

Miss Corbett also testified that the countess said later:

"I don't care about his wife. He's my man and I'm going to keep him."

Defendant To Testify

New York, N. Y., March 15.—Claiming she did not know he was already married when she became the bride of James F. Get No Trace Of Hinchcliffe And Woman On Flight

Hours Go By And Hope Fades That Daring Fliers Are Safe

LIKELY RAN INTO STORM OF SLEET

Last Heard From Tuesday Afternoon 170 Miles Off Irish Coast

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 15.—Elsie Mackay, pretty, steel-nerved daughter of an English lord, and Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, who brought down seven enemy planes during the war and lost an eye doing it, have met the tragic fate of Nungesser and Coli, and other brave souls who essayed a westward flight across the Atlantic ocean, in the opinion of almost everybody who has been waiting word of them for hours.

Hope that Miss Mackay and Capt. Hinchcliffe are alive was practically abandoned this morning when the falsity of numerous vague reports that they had been sighted was established. One report said a plane which might have been Hinchcliffe's had been forced down near St. John, New Brunswick; another that the plane had been observed near Anagemce, New Brunswick, and a few others equally vague. These reports served to buoy hopes of the watchers, but that was all.

Nothing Definite

At 8:30 o'clock this morning, 33 hours had passed since the take-off, and at that hour nothing bearing definite confirmation that the plane had succeeded in crossing the Atlantic had been received. No exact and definite sighting of Hinchcliffe's Stin-

Ice Pack Goes Down Allegheny

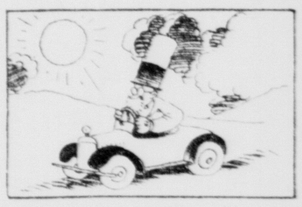
(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 15.—The annual spring ice-pack has passed down the Allegheny river this year without serious damage.

The last small cakes of slushy ice had reached Pittsburgh today and by tonight were expected to be melting rapidly on their cumberson ride down the Ohio.

A nine mile gorge which caused a bit of worry when it piled up behind Dam No. 5 at Freeport disintegrated and went over the barrier when the Allegheny's waters were raised by rainfall.

Arthur Mometer



They're a splendid thing when they're running right, and the tanks is all filled up with gas, and the oil is fresh and the tires hard, but there are times when, alas, the motor coughs like a motor boat, and it staggers on every hill, and its then you cry for the motor mech, when you know that the engine is ill. It runs a fever and shakes a bit, and shudders as though in pain, and you throw it in low for a hundred yards and it sputters all over again. Oh they're splendid things are the motor cars, when they run like a summer morn, but there are some times when everything's wrong, excepting perhaps the horn, and the motor stalls and the night is cold, and a fellow gets mighty sore, its then that a car is a pest at times, the weather is thirty-four.

Want Twins? Here Is Your Chance To Get Fine Boys

Mother Of Little Ones Dead And Father Is Willing To Have Them Adopted

Who wants a couple of twin boys about two weeks old? Or, if you do not want twins, would you like to have one of the boys?

County Commissioner T. J. McCullough reported this mornig that the father of the boys an Austrian who resides in Bessemer, has visited the county commissioner's office in an effort to have the county take care of the twins.

According to the story told the commissioners the mother of the twins died a few days ago. The father has several other children and is unable to take care of the new arrivals. The father appeared to be a healthy, intelligent looking man.

He said that he would like to get a home for the children and was willing to consent to their adoption into a good family or that he would consent to their separation.

The county has no means of taking care of the twins and Commissioner McCullough suggested that something be published in the hope that a home or homes may be found for them.

Any person interested can call Mr. McCullough at the county commissioner's office.

Father Takes Punch At Girl's Annoyer

Irate Father With One Blow Fells Annoyer Of Small Daughter

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 15.—An irate father, James Patterson, felled with a punch of his fist a man who grabbed his daughter, Dorothy May, eight, near an alley last night, it was reported to police today.

The girl, en route to a grocery, said she was grabbed by a strange man. She broke away, ran to the store and told the grocer, who escorted her home.

Patterson and his daughter then went to search for the stranger. The little girl identified a man, leaning against a pole about a block from the house, as the annoyer.

Patterson said he hit the man without waiting to speak. The stranger dropped to the ground, staggered to his feet and ran, Patterson said.

Mrs. Corbett, mother of Corbett's baby, who testified she would not prosecute him for bigamy because of their child, claims that the titled lady deliberately lured Corbett. Mrs. Corbett alleges that the Countess eloped to Buffalo with Corbett while she was in a hospital.

The countess, who is the daughter of Frederick A. Stevenson, millionaire vice-president of the America Car and Foundry Company, admitted in court that it was her handwriting in a letter to Corbett's mother, which said in part:

Sorry we had to do it this way. Hope you'll forgive us. We're going to make a go of this marriage.

Mrs. Corbett's attorney insisted this proved the Countess knew of her bridegroom's other marital responsibilities.

FEAR COUNTLESS BODIES OF DEAD SWEPT INTO SEA

the flood area today were confronted by the four-fold task of:

1.—Systematic identification of the recovered dead.

2.—Rehabilitation of hundreds of homeless survivors.

3.—Enforcement of sanitation measures to prevent epidemic.

4.—Reconstruction of property.

Probably the most far-reaching inquiry of the seven investigations under way is the one begun by Coroner Nance, who announced he would engage engineers and geologists to gather expert testimony to fix the responsibility of the heavy loss of life in the disaster.

Arrests would be demanded, Nance said, if any one should be found guilty of criminal negligence as a result of the crumbling of the massive St. Francis dam.

Personally supervised by Chief Engineer William Mulholland, builder of the 180-foot structure, who wept when he first learned of its destruction, the investigation by the Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light also has employed the services of a trio of noted geologists to determine the cause of the break. Authorities of Ventura county, whose boundaries were swept by the flood, have instituted a separate inquiry while independent investigations were ordered by State Engineer Edward Hyatt and the State Railroad Commission.

Resume Search.

LOS ANGELES, March 15—As daylight broke over the rugged peaks of Santa Clara valley today and 3,000 mounted and foot men resumed their search, the bodies of 12 additional flood victims were uncovered, swelling the total of 373 of known dead and officially missing in the St. Francis dam break.

Simultaneously seven separate inquiries were under way to fix the blame for the bursting of the huge concrete dam shortly after midnight Tuesday, which hurled a tidal wave of water 60 to 100 feet high down the narrow San Francisquito canyon and over the fertile Santa Clara valley, drowning hundreds of sleeping families and leaving $12,000,000 destruction in its wake.

made at the various air mail ports to get weather reports.

It is planned that they will spend tonight in Omaha, Nebraska and Friday night in Chicago. They hope to arrive here on Saturday from that place.

Mr. Kegarise advised his wife that he did not expect to be able to wire from every stop, owing to the lack of telgraphic facilities at some of the ports, but stated he would send the exact time of the hop off, which had not yet been received early this afternoon.

Mrs. Ralph Kegarise this afternoon stated she had received a telegram from her husband stating that he had been unable to "hop off" this morning from Denver, on account of a heavy snowfall. This will delay his scheduled arrival here Saturday.

GET NO TRACE OF HINCHCLIFFE AND WOMAN ON FLIGHT

son-Detroiter monoplane "Endeavor", attempting a flight from England to Philadelphia, had been made since Tuesday afternoon when it was seen by a vessel about 170 miles off the Irish coast.

Experienced aviators and meteorologists familiar with the dangers attending a flight from Europe to America expressed the belief that the daring couple had not reached mid-Atlantic. It was regarded as likely that somewhere over mid-ocean they ran into sleet, ice and fog and were forced down into the sea.

Fourteen Is Toll

Fourteen persons, two of them women, the 63-year-old Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, and Mrs. Frances Grayson, have lost their lives trying to fly the Atlantic, and half of these were lost in the attempt to fly from east to west against the severe head winds that prevail.

No one has flown the north Atlantic from east to west, although 11 men have spanned the ocean going in the easterly direction, in which the winds are favorable.

The "death toll" on transatlantic flights so far follow:

Nungesser and Coli, the famous French flyers, who went down with the monoplane White Bird. Two Canadian pilots who were lost on the Sir John Carling. Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and two pilots who vanished in a single motored Fokker. Philip Payne, Lloyd Bertaud and St. John Hill, who were lost on the "Old Glory". Mrs. Grayson and three men, who went down on "The Dawn".

One other woman—Miss Mildred Doran—met death in a trans-oceanic flight. She and two men lost their lives in an attempted flight from the Pacific coast to Hawaii.

Fuel Supply Exhausted

Captain Hinchcliffe could hardly have carried more than 500 gallons of fuel, which would have lasted him approximately 45 hours. It was estimated that his Wright motor would use up 12 gallons an hour. His supply, therefore, would have been consumed late last night.

Only a slender ray of hope remained for those who are watching with tragic forebodings. That is that Hinchcliffe and Miss Mackay managed to reach land far off their course and came down somewhere in the wilderness of Newfoundland or on the bleak interior of Labrador. This hope, however, was very dim, and becoming dimmer as the hours passed.

Newfoundland was cold and snow-covered today and last night, with no storms prevailing. During the night the aurora borealis sent its luminous rays over the ocean, lighting the way for the lone travelers of the skies if they were anywhere near that vicinity. Lighthouses and wireless stations maintained a sharp lookout throughout the night, but saw no signs of the missing monoplane.

At Mitchel and Curtiss Fields, New York, nearly 7,000 persons congregated in the belief that Miss Mackay and Capt. Hinchcliffe would come swooping down from the sky in true Lindbergh style, albeit a little late, but their vigil was in vain.

The hours passed and slowly the crowd dispersed, convinced that another tragic page had been written into the annals of aviation.

GERMAN BIRTH RATE DROPS

In the schools of Berlin are only 353,000 children as compared with 700,000 before the World war, and the birth rate is less than half of that of 15 years ago. This was the declaration of the Ober-Burgermaster of Berlin, speaking recently in the Prussian council of state. He attributed the decrease in the birth rate principally to the insufficient number of houses.

Here's one "Grown-up" drink that's good for children!

NATURALLY you can't let the children have caffein beverages with their meals. That's out of the question. But it is hard to say "No" to their "Please, Mother!" Harder still if your children are among the many who don't like milk.

Here's a simple way out of the difficulty! Serve Instant Postum made with milk, the drink that schools everywhere are serving as part of the noon-day lunch. It's so easy to make! Just put a teaspoonful of Instant Postum in a cup, pour in hot (not boiled) milk, add sugar to taste—it's ready!

Healthful—Nourishing!

There's no caffein in Instant Postum made with milk. Not the slightest trace of any drug! Instead, you have a drink made of whole wheat and bran, plus all the body-building nourishment of milk. A drink with a smooth, rich flavor all its own. Children love it—even children who don't like milk alone!

Your grocer has Instant Postum. Order it today—serve it to your children tomorrow! And try it yourself—made with either milk or boiling water. Or, let Postum be your mealtime drink for thirty days. See what a difference it makes! Then decide if you will ever go back to caffein beverages. Eight out of ten decide "No"!

DANGER IN COLDS

HOW unfortunate it is that scientists who have been searching for the cause and cure of the common cold did not succeed before spring brought another open season for colds. More colds are contracted in the spring than in any other time of the year and it is popularly believed the late-spring variety of cold is the most difficult to cure.

Spring thaws, rains, sudden changes in temperature and balmy days that cause one to discard winter's raiment with reckless abandon will keep half the population sneezing and blowing until warm weather decides to put in the summer here.

Science and mothers have evolved many preparations and methods of treatment that afford some relief for a "mean cold" and sometimes stop them on the way, but they have been slow to find an infallible preventive. Some panaceas succeed with one patient and fail with the next.

One promising discovery was made through experiments conducted during the winter. It was found that among persons given baths twice a week in the ultra-violet rays of a mercury vapor lamp there is 50 per cent greater freedom from colds. The rays, it is believed, increase the resistance of the blood to the germs that cause colds and strengthen the delicate tissues through which bacteria enters the body.

A preventive and sure-cure for the cold must be found to reduce the misery of humanity, for a person with a cold is miserable, and to save thousands of lives. Neglected colds result in countless deaths every year.

CALIFORNIA DAM BREAKING DISASTER

THE IMAGINATION is a little stunned as it contemplates the thundering terror which fell upon a quiet California valley when a dam broke and a million tons of water came pouring down. It is not difficult reflects the New York World to bring the fancy to bear upon the elemental aspects of the scene: There was the broad, level land that lay between steep hills in the moonlight, with houses here and there and half a thousand people lost in sleep. Above the valley loomed the bulk of the dam, holding back its lake of water. It had been there quite a long time, and it had grown to be a familiar thing. The engineers who made it had not scamped their work, and those who lived in the valley never thought of the dam with fear. It never occured to them to doubt that it would hold. So they lived and worked and slept, perhaps in as much contentment as most men.

Then, suddenly, the thing happened. The fancy can ever picture the fantastic truth that the thing had happened: that the dam had collapsed and the great wall of water had begun its rush down upon the people.

But there the imagination stops. For who can know what was in the minds of those men and women, shaken suddenly out of their sleep by noise, and trembling earth, and wind? Who can approximate the horror in their minds as they sensed what was coming, and began to run, knowing that their flight was futile? Behind them the water came faster than they could fly. On each side were the abrupt slopes. Nothing to do but wait, and take their death when it came to them. No doubt they died bravely, for the majority of men do that. But the thought of their end, the grotesque inevitability of it once that dam had cracked, leaves us a little shaken.

WHEN CAN YOU LEARN MOST EASILY?

THE PREACHER may have thought that there is no new thing under the sun, but our professors are proving that he was wrong.

Here is one who says that the high point of receptivity in learning comes at the age of twenty-one, and that from then the decline is about one per cent a year. If this be really the rule, there are plenty of exceptions to it other than the celebrated one of Cato. Does not the student at a law school, for example, apply himself to his books more diligently than most undergraduates? It is an odd idea that the maturer mind is less capable than the younger of receiving and recording impressions or of cultivating intellectual activity.

Yet the professor himself says that a man of forty-two learns more easily than a boy of fifteen. This implies that receptivity develops amazingly in the six years between fifteen and twenty-one. If the rise is so rapid, why is the decline so slow? Again, how can any measuring-stick of this sort be of general application?

No one denies that minds are not cast in a single mould, and that the time of mental growth must differ infinitely in individual cases. By what process is the average percentage so confidently asserted by the professor reached?

His conclusions will seem to many persons highly speculative.

A few persons depend too much on themselves, but more depend too much on others.

It's passing strange that the United States is supervising an election in Nicaragua, in order that everything may be fair and decent and the senate finds it necessary to investigate elections held in Illinois and Pennsylvania. A scientist connected with the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., is making plans to weigh the earth. But who in the world cares anything about its weight, when dirt is so cheap and plentiful.

There's one thing that the scientists have never been able to accomplish and that is to make sense out of the average political speech.

Ida Lehto, an inmate of Navada Hospital for Mental Diseases, has been carrying an old sack tightly clutched to her bosom for the past four years. Attendants and others have been of the opinion that it contained old rags. It has been found to contain $4,300 in currency. Perhaps she's not as crazy as some people would have you believe.

Saw a silver dollar the other day, the first that we've known to be in circulation in some time. We're afraid that if they should come back into common usage, that none of us would have pockets strong enough to carry our share.

In spite of all we hear about how poor and destitute Austria is, we find that the profits of the Austrian National bank exceeded $2,500,000. That's an evidence of what American assistance and aid can do for a poverty-stricken country. Why not try a little of the same medicine on our country and improve conditions here?

An apple a day will keep the doctor away, but have you ever heard that an empty pork barrel could satisfy the average needs of a member of congress. You'll generally find that they are generally allied with those of similar selfish ideals and all are working to get what they can out of it.

The Fords, who made the automobile possible for most of us, are now investigating, we are told, the possibilities of all metal dirigibles for overseas passenger service. It might be a good way to get the oil out.

The Big Brother Movement, Inc., during its 23 years of existence has cared for 12,351 boys and 93 per cent of these boys have been salvaged. The movement is intended to deal with boys who commit minor offenses that get them into court. Such movements as these pay big dividends.

An Anglican clergyman at Mansfield, England, is having great success in stimulating attendance at his services by allowing members of his congregation to heckle him. Chicago has banned parking in its busiest sections. It's an experiment, and there are those who find conditions worse, while others who believe that it will eventually prove a success. The only trouble with parking, as we see it, is that too many parkers expect more than the other fellow and make it miserable for all.

ON A CITY STREET.

As I walked down the street today,
I passed a house where children play.
I smiled and all the world seemed gay.
But after I'd traveled a few yards more,
I came to a house with a somber door—
The crepe of death and a wreath it wore.

There was a canopy further down
Arching the sidewalk with red and brown,
Where a maid was donning her wedding gown.

In the following block that very morn
I passed a house where a child was born,
And a mother was smiling her pain to scorn.

Who walks for a while on a city street
Every emotion of life will meet,
From sorrow's bitter to childhood's sweet.

Bankers offered $5,000 for any bank robber dead or alive, especially dead. Capt. Hamer of the Texas State Rangers says that four dead bank robbers for which Texas bankers paid $20,000 "were lured into bank robbing jobs by a man who directed them, gave information to the police and privately shared the rewards for killing them."

Organization of a "murder machine" that starts men robbing banks in order to get $5,000 apiece for their corpses is said to worry the Texas bankers. It might.

On Monday Wall street broke all records selling more than 3,900,000 shares. In one day the value of stocks traded in increased by a billion dollars.

A new career is open to energetic salesmen. Capt. Gordon Smith former army aviator opens the way in an airplane lent to him and co-piloted by Richard Wall.

Capt. Smith will visit 40 American cities in a 9,000-mile flight selling aircraft advertising for the New York American. Other newspapers may want to borrow the idea.

Mr. Wall, wealthy Toledo business man, lends his aircraft to Capt. Smith and pilots it "for the fun of flying." The plane will carry an operator and broadcasting apparatus installed by the Radio Corporation of America.

Before long airplanes will simplify the traveling salesman's work, eliminating time and distance, multiplying the salesman's value and earning power by three.

Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago received by the Pope on Monday presented to the head of the Catholic religion a check for $1,500,000 contributed by American Catholics to "aid in propagation of the faith."

That complete separation of church and state does not injure religion is proved by the fact that American Catholics are the most generous contributors to their church.

Cardinal Munderein was saluted by the Swiss Guards wearing the interesting uniform designed by Michael Angelo. His cloak was removed by papal "bearers" clad in red damask that carry the great chair in which the Pope rides to his throne in St. Peter's. The Associated Press report describes Cardinal Mundelein prostrating himself on the ground before the Pope who affectionately raised and embraced him and sent a special blessing to each contributor in America.

Stefansson eating nothing but meat in a test finds that it agrees with him. Men in the Arctic circle eat only meat the greater part of their lives and thrive. Man is an adaptable animal, can live on the equator, the thermometer at 140 above or in the Arctic at 60 degrees below zero. He can eat and live on almost anything.

But what man needs and ought to have is a much mixed diet. His job here is to cultivate the earth. And to make him work Providence has given him a palate that craves all of the earth's products. An all carniverous or an all vegetarian diet is bad.

The house postoffice committee recommends a cut of $10,000,000 a year in postoffice charges. The one cent post card will be restored, third and fourth class postal rates reduced.

The suggestion is a good one if only because it shows that the government knows how to run a postoffice well, even if it can't run railroads, steamships and such difficult enterprises.

AUTO SPEED

There is more than one kind of speed due to the motor car. The manufacturing business in various lines—the making of things from harvesters to collars—has been speeded up by methods learned from motor car makers. Small motor cars, clicking out like clock-work, have taught manufacturers the world over a new way to speed up production.

APPLICATION

DON'TS

Too many don't make law-breaking easy and a habit. There are too many trivial laws and too little concentration and obedience to fundamental laws of behavior. Michigan sets a good example by taking off the speed law and demanding that folks drive "with care"

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE NEW CALENDAR

Attention has been called several times in this column to the efforts being made to have adopted a new calendar having 13 months of 28 days each.

It has been suggested that America have the courage to adopt this standard without waiting for Europe. If it shall be so, if the South American and North American countries unite in their effort to change the calendar it will be another indication that American civilization has definitely broken the bonds still further that heretofore have tied them to the older peoples of Europe.

It is a struggle of common sense and reason against inertia. The power of inertia is enormous. The best reason for doing a thing a certain way still remains that we have always done it that way.

We have got used to the old system, whatever it is. We acknowledge its drawbacks, but we know what they are. We do not know what difficulties an untried plan would involve.

But there seems to be no difficulties in this proposition other than the difficulty of making the change in the first place.

Most of us are familiar with the proposal. It is to have 13 months of 28 days, exactly 4 weeks in each month, making every week day occur on a fixed monthly date and having every holiday occur on the same week day, making calendars unnecessary, having the date of the week indicate the day of the month, adding an extra day to the year and inserting an extra month, the 13th, as a month called Sol between June and July, and adding an extra day every Leap Year to June.

This seems to be a subject that could well be considered by the League of Nations, but it is now proposed that America lead the way without waiting for world consent.

Mr. Cotsworth says that if conservative Europe could discard the computations of hundreds of years and adopt the metric system of weights and measures it is not too much to expect that advanced and efficient America could discard an antique calendar wholly unadapted to this modern age.

Bible Thought For Today

OUR DWELLING.—Lord Thou hast been our dwellingplace in all generations. Psalm 90:1.

PRAYER: O God, may our lives be hid with Christ, in God.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

TELL IT TO CONGRESS

There are 142,622 stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad, perhaps more in number than the holders of any other Railroad stock in the United States. There are moreover many other solvent, successful and great Railway systems operating in this country. The New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Atcheson, Topeka and Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Illinois Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Delaware and Hudson are only a few of the Companies who are now mailing dividend checks regularly. Even the New York, New Haven & Hartford Road will pay a dividend in April, the first since 1913—welcome news to New England. There are several million American citizens who own Railroad stocks and why should there be this continual Railway "baiting" by Congress?

Communities which are without adequate transportation lag behind, and those with wholly inadequate transportation are unable to enter the contest.

Reliable and efficient railroad transportation is indispensible to the public welfare and to obtain such transportation purchasers must be found each year for approximately five hundred million dollars of railroad securities.

Railroad securities must be marketed in competition with those of other public utilities, and with federal, state and municipal bonds which have tax exemption privileges and with many securities of prosperous industries which afford reasonable safety and larger returns and are not subject to disturbing legislation.

The greater part of the capital available for investment today is the savings of yesterday above the cost of living, of men and women energetic enough to earn and intelligent enough to save.

Such men and women will not invest their accumulated savings in railroad securities, assume the necessary risk attendant upon such investment and in addition thereto the hazard of probable hostile regulation.

The welfare of those who invest their money in railroads and of those who use the service of the railroads are so interdependent that injustice cannot be done to the owners without substantially burdening the users.

Any burden unnecessarily or unjustly imposed upon the railroads must, if they are to live and render adequate service, be brought back to the public in increased transportation costs.

Regardless of the attitude of railway patrons and the public generally, the present and prospective owners of railroad securities are much disturbed by the large number of bills introduced in Congress annually proposing further restrictive regulation. There perhaps has never been so many Bills proposing further restrictive legislation introduced in the same length of time as in the present Congress.

The effect of the tendency of such a large number of Bills proposing further restrictive legislation is to impair the ability of the railroads to secure the new capital constantly required to expand their properties so as to meet the growing transportation needs of the country.

The millions of Railroad security holders are voters also. Why do they not emphatically show Congress where "to head in at?"

In doing the thing everybody knows is easy.
In giving a friend a gift that he can buy for himself.

C. B. D. CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN NEW YORK

Wandering about in the Gotham Book Mart, where I occasionally find an art book that I can't resist, my eye was attracted by a chaste and elegant cover titled "Twenty-seven Drawings by William Blake." I asked to be permitted to look at the book, and soon was lost in delighted contemplation of the drawings.

"How much for this book?"

"Four dollars," replied the salesman.

"I'll take it," I said. "But I can't see how it can be manufactured at such a price. Wonderful painting! Perfect reproductions! Of course, I presume it was done in England, or in Germany. We don't do work like that in this country."

"No," said the salesman. "It's done in America. Let's see; somewhere out West, I believe."

And he turned to the title page and the page following. On the one I was informed that the publisher is Carl J. Smalley, McPherson, Kansas, and on the other that the manufacturing was done by the Western Lithograph Company, Wichita, Kansas.

When I was editor of a newspaper in Wichita, one of my very good friends was Walter Vincent, president of the Western Lithograph. Walter was president of a local art club, too. I used to talk to him about the sad state of the arts.

"Too bad we can't wake up a bit of appreciation of art here," I used to say. And then I'd go back to my office and write an editorial about the need for more art in the West.

Well, here's a good laugh for Walter. When I search the Mart for something particularly beautiful and appealing and inexpensive, I go away hugging to my bosom a gem of art—made in Wichita.

And that reminds me that I recently spent a pleasant hour in the studio of John Noble, on Stuyvesant Square. Noble is a painter who has won his laurels. He no longer needs either praise or patronage. But in his boyhood he was assistant to a photographer in Wichita, and he used to paint pictures of anybody who would sit for him, for a nominal sum.

John Noble painted the picture that started prohibition on its way to realization. The picture was called "Cleopatra at the Roman Bath," and it hung on the wall, opposite the mirror of the bar at the Carey Hotel, in Witchita.

Carry Nation (who spelled her name Carry, not Carrie) objected to the picture, and smashed it with rocks. That gave her the idea of smashing saloons, and so prohibition's greatest promoter was on her way.

FREE OF STOMACH MISERY AND GLAD HE GOT KONJOLA

"It Is Wonderful", He Says; Completely Restored His Health In Every Way

MR. ELMER E. COOPER

It was predicted less than three weeks ago that the people of New Castle would very quickly find out about the merits of this celebrated new medicine, Konjola, which the Konjola Man is introducing and explaining in person to large crowds each day at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle.

Report after report is being received from men and women of this city, describing the remarkable benefits derived from the use of this surprising new compound. For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. Elmer E. Cooper, R. R. No. 1, this city, made the following statement:

"Konjola is wonderful", said Mr. Cooper, "It has restored my health in every way, and I feel it is only right to indorse such a medicine to the public.

"My trouble started about twenty years ago with awful stomach trouble. My condition became worse as each month passed, and I seemed to be dragging through life half-sick all the time. Sharp indigestion pains would come over me after every meal. What little food I managed to eat would cause intense misery. I would bloat up with gas, that pressed against my heart making it palpitate and flutter so much I often thought it would stop beating. I began losing several days work and finally a severe attack of lumbago compelled me to give up my position entirely. Terrible backaches and dizzy spells kept me in constant misery. I never could sleep like other people and most of the time I would lie awake, suffering from awful pains.

"That was exactly my condition before I found Konjola, but since I have taken this medicine, everything is different. In a few days I had more energy and seemed to have new feelings of health in general. My appetite is wonderful and no matter what I eat, there is not a sign of indigestion. The bloating spells never come over me and the pains around my heart are completely ended. I have returned to work as the lumbago disappeared soon after I started taking Konjola. My health is so much better I hardly know what to make of it. My wife was also benefited by Konjola. She had a severe case of neuritis and stomach trouble that made it almost impossible for her to move around the house. She took Konjola the same time as myself and now every touch of neuritis and stomach trouble is gone.

"Yes, Konjola completely ended my health troubles, and I am feeling like a different person entirely. I gladly indorse this medicine because I know what it will do."

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

WOMAN WHO KILLED HER HUSBAND DIES

BECKLEY, W. Va., March 15.—An illness aggravated by worry over her coming trial for the fatal shooting of her husband, was given by physicians as a contributing cause for the death of Mrs. Pearl Kasey, 30.

John Kasey, the woman's husband, was fatally shot a month ago at their home in Snuffertown, near here. The woman was arrested and admitted the shooting at a preliminary hearing, declaring she used a pistol to prevent her husband from mistreating one of their children, rising from a sick bed to go to the defense of the child.

The woman was at liberty under bond pending trial.

ANOTHER SLEEPLESS NIGHT

You go to bed dog-tired but still no sleep, no real rest. Morning finds you a rag. One of the first effects of a poisoned system is "nerves"—restless, sleepless nights. The whole thing is traceable to our modern habits of life which put too great a burden on our vital organs, especially the liver.

The liver becoming "dead" or sluggish fails to remove the toxic poisons from the blood, which then poisons the system, weakening stomach, kidneys and heart, causing high blood pressure and undermining health in general.

It is universally recognized that occasionally the liver needs a little help. Nothing is better for this, say medical men, than ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning so essential to real health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few bring new days.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Miss Taylor And Vincent St. John Well Received

Singing with an ease and abandon Seldom displayed by artists of many years, Vincent St. John and Margaret Taylor, New York artists, delighted a good sized audience at the high school auditorium last night, appearing in scenes from "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Preceding this presentation, Miss Taylor gave a short description of the play, making the scenes as they appeared more realistic. Miss Taylor, as "Santuzza," gave a clever impersonation of this difficult role, while Vincent St. John more than did justice to the roll of "Turiddu".

A group of songs, including operatic and the more popular numbers were sung. Miss Taylor was especially splendid in her Italian numbers showing a very sweet clear voice and wide range of tone.

By request Vincent St. John delighted the audience with a group of songs dear to the heart of the Irish and Scotch. To an outsider it would have been difficult to tell which were the more popular, this group of English songs, including "Songs My Mother Taught Me," "Mother Machree," and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," with "My Wild Irish Rose," as an encore, or the Italian group of songs.

Both Miss Taylor and Mr. St. John were very generous with encores and on all sides nothing but words of the highest praise were heard of these two young artists.

Both artists, through their charming personalities, won the hearts of the audience from the minute the first number was sung, receiving repeated encores on each number presented.

They will appear Saturday afternoon and night at Scottish Rite Auditorium, March 17th.

Time To Debunk

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

Every once in a while a man will say or do something which will bring results entirely different and farther reaching than anything that he could have possibly conceived.

Take for instance, Lindbergh. When he put a couple of ham sandwiches into his pocket and set sail in an airship for Paris it is certain he had no possible idea that the accomplishment of his avowed purpose would make him America's idol. If he had he would have asked for a letter to our ambassador to France.

Dr. Will Durant would never have said that love was dead or at least moribund in a man or woman of thirty if he had realized he would thus have kicked up a muss that caused nearly every writer to enter the fray.

We women however, should be thankful of one thing Dr. Durant has said and that is there is no difference between the sexes in the length of their emotional life.

Until this modern philosopher became the propagandist of equality of the sexes men have always believed because all great male lovers have said it that women's emotional natures were too delicately attuned to love more than once while men could love as often as there were times, places and circumstances.

The male mob gleefully subscribed to this for it gave them another chance to put over the double standard.

Women however have awakened to the fact that it is time that they should begin the debunking of all this "too delicate, too modest, too gentle, too virtuous, too physically weak" stuff.

The whole truth of these chivalrous and refined terms mean only two things: "I am man, it is my supreme right to do as my mind or senses dictate but you are woman and must also do what my mind and senses dictate you to do."

"The war did many things beside changing the map of Europe. It showed that women were just as strong physically as man; that it was not any harder to dig in the fields than to wash clothes or scrub floors; that in gainful pursuits they were showing themselves quite as successful—taking the percentage by the number that elects to take them up—as were men.

It is now quite time that they should consider themselves equally able to say how long their love shall last and what will have surely killed it. Woman should exercise the same right as does the other sex to resuscitate love or let it be buried deep from human eyes.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

Demand for the five-day week will be made in many quarters this year. Employers, many of them, would not greatly object to the five-day week if they were not expected to pay the same wages they have been paying for a six-day week. Labor wants the high wage and the short week both. There is call for much reasonableness on both sides.

LEARNING TO SPEND

The kind of thrift which is mere miserliness helps nobody. There was much of that in Europe before the war, and much now. Over there folks are learning something about spending. They learn largely from America. It is not mere saving that brings prosperity. Balanced saving and spending is what the industrial world needs.

Julius Barnes, vice president of the International Chamber of Commerce, student of business conditions abroad, says the experiment of high wages in America is teaching Europe how to create a new and greater market of buyers.

High School Play Will Be Presented At School Tonight

Don't forget The Tightwad tonight and tomorrow night at the Senior High auditorium. Since the play was postponed from March 1 and 2, due to the sudden death of Miss Eberle, the cast has been hard at work and the play promises to be an unusual treat.

On account of the elimination basketball games, there was a conflict between the play and the basketball game at Pittsburgh with the first date, and due to the series of victories which the local team has been having, there is a conflict again Friday night.

Public sentiment is with both the basketball team and the dramatic class; therefore those who find it inconvenient to go to Pittsburgh can show their appreciation of our young friends at Ne-Ca-Hi by attending the play.

COLONEL REDWING OF THE BLACKBIRD RESERVES

"I am very glad to meet you, Colonel—Colonel—what did you say your name was?" To save his neck Peter could not remember what the late arrival had called himself.

"Colonel Redwing of the Blackbird Reserves, at your service, sir!" declared the bird, and raised his right wing as near to his head as he could get it in a martial salute, which the boy returned with as military an air as he could master.

"You must have been in a great many battles to have received such high rank, Colonel. With whom do you fight?" asked he, respectfully.

"With anybody who does not mind his own business and interferes with my affairs. Take the Hawks, for instance! My poor wives almost worry their feathers off during nesting time for fear that every time they leave the babies alone even for a minute, one of those wicked cannibals will swoop down from the sky and carry off one of the children in his talons.

"All we Redwings are in such fighting humor in nesting times that unlucky is any bird who crosses our path. We are likely to tear him to pieces. Why, you might not believe it, but sometimes we get so furious that we Blackbirds even fight with each other."

Redwing ruffled up his feathers and looked so fierce that the boy backed a little away from him. Redwing noticed it and calmed down a bit.

"Oh, you needn't be afraid of me now," declared he. "In the first place you are not a bird, and so I would have no reason to be angry with you. In the second place I feel much better humored away from my wives than I do when I am with them. They are faithful mothers, I'll say that much for them, but it does upset a fellow some trying to keep all of them pleased."

"AT YOUR SERVICE, SIR," SAID THE BIRD, RAISING HIS WING IN SALUTE.

"Did I understand you to say wives?" asked the boy, in amazement. "Surely you haven't more than one!"

"Oh, haven't I, though!" echoed Redwing. "I have four, I'd like you to know. And I am just as good to one as I am to another—treat them all alike.

"No Redwing has a larger family to be proud of nor a better looking one. The boys are always handsome — take after their father, of course—and the girls never fail to turn out model housewives—all due to their mother's training."

"All this is very interesting. You are the first bird I have met who is a polygamist." Peter was about to say more, but was interrupted.

"What is a polygamist?" demanded Redwing.

"A man that has more than one wife." Peter's answer seemed to please Redwing, he nodding approvingly.

"Then I am it," declared he. "But let me tell you it is not so easy. Too many wives do certainly give a fellow a lot of trouble."

STUDEBAKER SALES LARGEST IN HISTORY

Both January and February set new high marks in purchases by public!

SOUTH BEND, IND., Mar. 8.—Studebaker sales continue to climb to new goals of achievement! The number of Studebaker-built automobiles delivered to owners by dealers in the United States during the month just closed, was the largest of any February in history, and 31% in excess of February, 1927.

Coming immediately after the greatest January sales in Studebaker history, this continued flood of public preference for Studebaker is particularly significant.

Motorists appreciate Studebaker's advanced engineering—an automobile you can drive 40 miles an hour the day the new car is delivered—that requires lubrication but once in 2500 miles—that holds all the highest speed and endurance records for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price. The public has rightly interpreted these achievements as conclusive evidence of Studebaker's championship value due to One-Profit manufacture.

By all means see and drive these new Studebaker and Erskine cars! Know the feel of championship power at the touch of your toe! Know the results of Studebaker's advanced engineering, tested on Studebaker's million-dollar proving ground. You'll realize then, if you know cars, that Studebaker stands for stability—76 years of it!

The Daybook OF A New Yorker

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, March 15.—In one of the large commercial establishments downtown, which I visited the other day, I observed that all of the women employes wore smart, green smocks. Officers of the company and heads of the departments have a private dining room in the building, with food served from their own kitchen. The kitchen also supplies food in a large restaurant in the building to the other employees at cost. Everything about the place has an atmosphere of cleanliness, smartness and efficiency. I asked one of the officers of the company about the smocks.

"We require all our girls to wear smocks. We buy them in wholesale lots and sell them to the girls at cost, which is about a dollar apiece. We require them to have three smocks, one, green, one blue and one lavender. They wear the green smocks for a week and then turn them in to us. We have them laundered without charge. Next week they wear the blue smocks, and next the lavender. Thus we escape monotony and still have uniformity of costumes. And the girls always look neat and clean. The girl who cannot afford new dresses as often as the girl next to her, because she has to give more to her family, is thereby not put to a disadvantage in appearance. Our scheme also saves the dresses of the employees.

"Other firms, notably in Wall Street, have long ago instituted the smock uniform, but they do not launder the smocks for the girls free of charge. As a result the smocks the girls wear go unwashed for months at a time and are wrinkled and untidy. It costs only a few dollars to have this laundry done, and the increase in brightness and efficiency in the office is more than worth the cost.

"We also buy large quantities of cold creams, perfumes and cosmetics from one firm—the most expensive cosmetics on the market. We require our girls to use these creams, cosmetics and perfumes, so that the odor that emanates from them will be uniform. We are able to sell these cosmetics to the girls at the same price or lower than they pay for the cheaper cosmetics. If a girl does not like the particular kind of cold cream, face powder and perfume we require her to use, she must look elsewhere for a job.

"The reason for this is that in a large plant like ours, employing several hundred girls, many of them in the same large room, the conflicting odors of cheap perfumes and cosmetics is unbearable, especially in the summer time, and we believe that produces headaches and reduces efficiency. Our girls, of course, are happy to be able to buy the best creams and cosmetics on the market at the same price they would have to pay for inferior brands."

Paul Whiteman and his also fat friend, Bussee, who is Whiteman's best trumpeter, were coming out of a stage door, according to Walter Winchell. A large, dizzy blonde approached.

"Oh, Mr. Whiteman," she exclaimed. "Don't you remember me?"

"Sure he remembers you," said Bussee. "An elephant never forgets."

CALIFORNIANS SHOOT DOWN TOY BALLOON FROM CLEARFIELD

(International News Service)

CLEARFIELD, Pa., March 15. — While hunting ducks near Antioch, California, near San Francisco, Albert H. Chenoweth, formerly of Clearfield, and Lawrence Schucker, another former Clearfielder, spotted a toy balloon tossing about aimlessly in the air. The former brought it down with a rifle shot, and the pair rowed out to the point in a lake where it fell.

Much to their surprise they found attached to the remnants of the balloon a note from C. G. Johnston, a Clearfield baker. It offered two dozen cookies for return of the note. The cookies have been mailed.

Johnston released the balloons on February 3, last, and while Chenoweth's reply was dated March 4, he neglected to state on what day he shot it down. But it is estimated the balloon was in the air about a month.

FORCED LANDING OF FRENCH FLIERS BOOSTS AVIATION

(International News Service)

SHARON, Pa., March 15. — When Costes and LeBrix, the French four-continent fliers, made a forced landing at Sharpsville, near here they gave that little town its greatest forward impetus in regard to aviation.

Enthusiasts, led by Postmaster Franklin Clary, have raised a cry for erection of an emergency landing field. He proposed that the community purchase a field 4,000 feet square, which Clary thinks would be ideal.

Clary said: "Chamberlain, Costes, and several of the air mail pilots say that Sharpsville, being on the direct airmail route, should by all means get busy at once on an emergency landing field."

Mr. Rentz Meets Many New Castle Folks While Making Visit To Miami

After travelling for three weeks and not meeting a personal acquaintance, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz of this city have been having a New Castle reunion down in Miami, Florida, after reaching that city. Mr. Rentz, president of the New Castle News company, writes from Miami as follows:

Miami, Fla.,
March 10, 1928.

George W. Conway,
Editor The News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear George:—

The last letter I wrote you was from New Orleans, and we were just starting by boat from that city to Tampa, Florida. We rode 110 miles on the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico and from there to Tampa, a distance of 560 miles. It was a nice smooth ride and took 48 hours. We arrived in Tampa at 7:30 in the morning and a train at 11:30 for Miami, getting here at 8:30 the same evening.

We had been gone three weeks to the hour when we reached Miami and had not seen a person of our acquaintance, but of course had met quite a few people we knew of.

The first two persons we saw when we got off the train here were Mr. and Mrs. William C. Herrick of New York, friends of ours who visit us frequently in New Castle. Within less than an hour we met three other friends, Miss May King and Mrs. Robert White of Youngstown and Mrs. Charles Hull, formerly of New Castle, but now living here.

T. P. and Simeon Nixon, owners of the Nixon hotel in Butler, Pa., are at this hotel, The McAllister.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ferver arrived here at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, having driven from New Castle. They drove it in four days, 1600 miles, and could have made it sooner if they had not stopped several times on the road and gathered messes of roasting ears and oranges. We are all going to drive back together from here.

On Wednesday evening quite a gathering of friends were on the porch of the McAllister hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Jack McNamara and their daughter Edra, formerly of New Castle; Mr. and Mrs. Orrville Rigby and daughter Ruth, formerly of New Castle; Miss May King and Mrs. White of Youngstown, Mrs. Charles Hull of Miami, Mr. and Mrs. William D. McCreary and son David Jameson McCreary and daughter Jessie of Wallace avenue, New Castle; Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Ritter of Youngstown. It looked like old home week in New Castle.

On Thursday we drove to Fort Lauderdale to call on Mr. and Mrs. Bert Garvin, formerly of New Castle. Bert is an old schoolmate and we always call on him. While we were there Mr. and Mrs. John S. Wallace of New Castle and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Gilmore of Grove City called and we sure did have a grand visit all around at Bert's beautiful home. Mrs. Garvin was not at home and we missed her but will see her on the way north.

This is a most beautiful city and men and women are dressed in the sheerest summer clothing, with straw hats 'neverything. The weather is like June here and bathing is the order of the day and also at night, we hear.

On Thursday I attended the meeting of the Rotary club here with my friend Frank Shutts, owner of the Miami Herald, the greatest newspaper in the south, and he introduced the principal speaker of the day. Bet you can't guess who the speaker was. Yes, loud speaker. Rotarians were there from Pittsburgh, Greenville and many other Pennsylvania cities. There were 189 visitors present.

So far, in four weeks, we have not missed a copy of The New Castle News. We will have to admit it is a great paper after reading the five-cent samples we get in the southwest and south.

There are a lot of New Castle people here we have not seen and we have mentioned only those whom we have met.

It was Mrs. Rentz's birthday Friday and we celebrated with a dinner in this hotel. She got a letter from a friend in California the same day in which appeared the sentence: "It is DREADFUL to get old." This coming on her birthday and unintentional from her former New Castle friend sort of jarred her.

We have seen peach trees and other kinds of fruit trees in bloom. We will get to see the same kind of trees in bloom again later on at home.

A great beauty pageant took place here today and the bathing girls were on parade. A Miss Miami was selected after much parleying and we saw the whole fuss. There must have been 25,000 people in Biscayne park while the show was on. And the sun came right down straight.

We also see some funny sights here. For instance, many "spenorts" who carry canes and wear knickers at the same time and who do not know what a golf ball is.

We have not gotten back to eating beef very strong since the bull fight in Mexico.

The homes in Coral Gables and Miami Beach are more than beautiful and when we think of our modest home on Edison avenue in New Castle we feel as though we were living in a shanty. Bootleggers seem to have some of the best homes.

My friend, John H. Waters, chairman of the National Radiator Co., called on us but we were not at the hotel and we missed him.

Mrs. W. J. Bennett, former Myrtle Hughes of New Castle, made a pleasant visit to us this evening. She has been living here nine years and still thinks well of New Castle and keeps posted on doings there.

I have exhausted my gossip again. I was going to tell the story about the gentleman who went to see the dead lady and he said she looked better dead than he ever saw her while living because it was the first time he had ever seen her with her mouth shut, but I guess I had better not.

Yours truly,
FRED L. RENTZ.

Union Pickets To Be Given Hearing

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 15.—Fifteen additional union strike pickets in the Harmarville district today faced a hearing for picketing the Harmarville mine of the Consumers Coal Company. Hearing was set for March 22.

Although state police are arresting them, union leaders stated that mass picketing would be continued. When arrested they are charged with unlawful assembly as the sheriff has forbidden mass picketing.

At Bairdsford, thirty-eight miners and their families were evicted from houses owned by the Ford Colliers Company. They moved into frame barracks erected by the union.

PAIR OF BOWLERS SCORE 256 EACH

(International News Service)

WARREN, Pa., March 15. — Up along the northern stem of the Alelegheny river, where men are bowlers, the team of Gibby Johnston and Frankie Fadale are receiving congratulations for an unusual feat. In the second game of a three-game set, Johnston tumbled 256 pins, considered a mighty good score not only in these parts but elsewhere. While the fans were acclaiming Johnston, his teammate, Fadale, was throwing a destructive hood which netted him 256 pins also, a total of 512 for the team. Incidentally they also won the three-game tourney with a combined score of 1,270 pins, for an average of 228 pins each per game.

DIRECTORS VIOLATE VACCINATION LAWS

(International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., March 15. — Charged with violating the state vaccination laws the five members of the school board of Germany township, Adams county, will be given a preliminary hearing on Saturday. The charges were brought by a field agent of the state department of health, who said, that the school directors ordered several children in the township to return to school after a physician had sent them home for not being vaccinated.

FATHER AND SON CAUGHT WITH LIQUOR

BUTLER, Pa., March 15.—Allen B. Minser and his 15-year-old son, Thomas Minser, of Evans City, are under arrest for possessing, furnishing and transporting intoxicating liquor.

The officers had been given a tip that the Minsers were bringing liquor from Pittsburgh and they watched the Harmony Line cars. When Thomas Minser alighted from the car he was carrying a basket which he said contained potatoes. Investigation showed that the basket contained seven pints of liquor.

For Beauty

Flush out the poisons in this pleasant way

Beauty of complexion comes from the inside. So does all a woman's charm. Poisons and wastes in the system destroy them.

The quickest and best way to eliminate those poisons as they occur is this:

Drink a glass of water in the morning, hot or cold. Add a little "Epsonade." It will make a sparkling, pleasant drink. And it will flush the intestines quickly. You will see the results in an hour.

The method is gentle. It is due to acids of lemon and grape.

When you learn what this method means to you, have it always ready when you need it. It will bring you quick results, and gentle, any hour of the day.

Prove this by a test. Learn how easy it is to correct wrong conditions without delay. Your druggist will sell you a small quantity of "Epsonade" at small cost.

Feed Early Lambs For Profit Return

County Agent Suggests A Feed For Lambs Sold In September

If early lambs are to return a profit, they must be fed some grain now, says County Agent H. R. McCulloch. Otherwise they will not be any better by September than lambs born early in April.

"Early lambs should be pushed along so that they can be put on the June market before Western competition begins," Mr. McCulloch declares. "Both the ewes and the lambs need more feed now than later when they go on pasture. A creep should be provided for the youngsters. Feed the following mixture: 300 pounds of cracked corn, 200 pounds of ground oats, 50 pounds of bran and 25 pounds of oil meal."

All lambs should be docked at the age of one week or ten days and male lambs not to be kept for breeding should be castrated at two to four weeks of age.

If good clean corn silage is available, the ewes will enjoy receiving some of it. An increased milk flow will result, which will permit cutting down the grain fed to the lambs.

Prayer Meetings In Baptist Homes

Cottage prayer meeting will be held in the following homes of the First Baptist church, at 7:30 this evening: Ellis Reno, 942 Maryland avenue; C. K. Bechtol, 211 Pearson street; J. Q. L. Roberts, 115 Park avenue; E. L. English, 203 South Ray street; Wm. Sterling, 403 Wallace avenue; C. L. Fombelle, 1802 Highland avenue. Friday evening: Chester Craft, 1038 Beckford street; J. D. Warnock, 206 Milton street; Lee Sappington, 714 Carlisle street; H. C. Cook, 320 Hillcrest avenue.

Some men really enjoy what is called "small talk." Oh, well; somebody must buy these flowered pajamas.

TRAPPER FINDS BEAR IN CAVE

(International News Service)

BELLEFONTE, Pa., March 15. — Guyer Grove, Nittany Mountain trapper, poked his head into a hole in a ledge of rocks near here and his face struck something warm in the darkness. Two eyes glared at him, and the next moment he was flattened by a big black bear, outward bound.

Grove claims the bear was the most frightened of the two. He said the bear was out of sight before he could crawl out of the hole.

You develop some things by exercising them, but you develop discretion the other way.

Lenten Cantata Pleases Audience At Trinity Church

Sung By Large Chorus Under Direction Of Chorister, Paul Browne Patterson

Entering the church last evening with the knowledge that several soloists and members of the chorus were absent because of illness, conditions serious enough to upset any group of musicians, the organist, choir and soloists took up the rendition of "The Darkest Hour" by Harold Moore, in Trinity church in a fine spirit of loyalty and determination to make it a beautiful one. This involved reading at sight practically, and carrying a much heavier responsibility on the part of the soloists, especially Dr. Womer and Charles Richards. Their willingness to undertake so heavy a burden is above praise and indicates the splendid attitude of all last evening.

The soloists were Miss Rebecca J. Garvin, Miss Frances V. Gibson, Miss Lottie B. Nicklin, Mrs. Della S. Rice, Mrs. Welty O. Rugh, Messrs. William Jones, George J. Liversage, Charles Richards, Fred Smith, Arthur Thomas and Fred Worthington.

Without prejudice it may be said that the work of Mrs. Della S. Rice, Miss Rebecca J. Garvin and Charles Richards is worthy of especial commendation.

The attacks, shading, observance of time, etc., showed a chorus that had been drilled. In fact, the chorus parts were the best yet heard in any cantata given in Trinity church since Paul Browne Patterson became organist and choirmaster. Particularly effective both as to the composition and the rendition was the March to Calvary and the chorus "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs."

If the results last evening are an indication of what may be expected next Tuesday at the Scottish Rite cathedral, the first concert of the Festival Choral society will be an event of importance in musical circles and a real contribution to the life of Lawrence county, in fact western Pennsylvania.

Perhaps the most moving and inspiring of all was the singing of Bach's Passion Chorale by choir and congregation. The great volume of tone and deliberate, measured time brought home the fact that chorale music accomplishes its purpose fully: that of providing a means by which large groups of people may express their pent up emotions musically.

The Lenten cantata given last evening showed what Trinity church choir is capable of doing and unusual cooperation on the part of assisting singers. In fitting words the rector expressed appreciation to all.

The devotions preceding, the other hymns, the prayers following, made an artistic unit and resulted in another of those beautiful and reverent services for which Trinity is becoming better and better known.

Arraigned on a murder charge, he is confined in Lackawanna county jail without bail to await action of the grand jury.

Beauty Contest Winner Sticks To Erring Manager

Forsakes Love Of Husband For Contest Manager; Denies Allegations

(International News Service).

DETROIT, March 15.—Miss Thelma Williams, 22-year-old beauty who appeared as "Miss Pittsburgh 1926" in the Atlantic City beauty pageant declared today that she will stand by Roscoe Grimm, her manager, who is being sought by Federal authorities on charges of violation of the Mann Act. Miss Williams, who was held as a witness against Grimm, was released on $1,000 personal bond. She is known non-professionally as Mrs. J. W. Gray.

Federal authorities allege that Grimm and two other men who are being sought, went about the country with Miss Williams and two other beauties arranging fake beauty contests in various cities which Miss Williams or one of her girl companions always won.

"This is absolutely false," said Miss Williams. "Mr. Grimm has used us girls as models for the local entrants in several contests he staged in New York and Pennsylvania cities and he planned such a contest in Detroit, but we never entered the contests and never once won a prize in them.

"As for my husband I do not love him and I am going to get a divorce. He came here yesterday but I told him I didn't love him.

"And I want it definitely understood that it was not my husband but Mr. Grimm who arranged my release on bond."

Want To See Different Kind Of Fire Trucks In Action

Councilman D. O. Davies, superintendent of the department of public safety, today stated that colleagues and he have as yet not decided what combination fire service truck to purchase and council will inspect machines, which the city has been offered before awarding a contract.

There are service trucks of the kind offered for sale to the city operating in the Tri-State section and Davies believes council would be able to best judge the machines by seeing them in action and an inspection trip is planned for the future.

Motorcycle Officer Richards answered the call and found that the dog that had done the biting belonged to Earl Jordan of 415 Garfield avenue.

It was claimed by the owner that the dog was tied up on the rear porch and that the biting had been occasioned by the boys returning home from school through the Jordan property and teasing the animal.

LITERARY CONTEST

Due to an epidemic of scarlet fever in Plaingrove high school the county literary contest has been postponed indefinitely. The first of the two contests to decide the championship was to have been held this evening at Bessemer. The next date will be as soon as it is convenient for Plaingrove.

CHAPEL

Because of the interesting speaker Bessemer high school audience experienced one of its most attentive chapel periods last Thursday morning. Dr. Grice, a missionary from Alaska, gave a talk about that section of our continent. He discussed the customs and appearances of the native people, the Eskimos.

Dr. Grice displaced from our minds some illusions concerning the appearance and intellect of those people. On account of his lecture we now know that the Eskimos are people of fine intellect if given a chance to develop their minds.

Aside from the interesting talk concerning Alaska, Miss Keys had also secured the services of several of the high school pupils. After the senior girls had sung "My Wild Irish Rose," Thelma DeArment amused the school with a comic monologue, and Oscar Eaton, dressed as an old farmer, gave a short reading.

TEAM PLAYS PUNXSUTAWNEY

To drive 110 miles for a basketball game is a mere trifle to the B. H. S. champions. Because of former relationships between the Punxsutawney coach and Bessemer high, Mr. Allen was able to secure a game with the Punxsutawney boys, who had already won the pennant of their district.

Leaving Bessemer Saturday at 9 a. M. the three cars which took the team made a pleasant trip and arrived at their destination about 2 in the afternoon.

Although the game was not a successful one for B. H. S. yet they felt proud of the fact that they had the opportunity of playing a class A champion team. The final score was 34-14.

MT. JACKSON GAMES

Ending a busy successful season of basketball the Bessemer teams played their last league game at Mt. Jackson last night.

Prior to the Mt. Jackson game the Bessemer boys had been undefeated in their league games. It was, therefore, only natural that they should have had such a good backing on the night of their final struggle.

Since the girls' basketball team has had such a glorious season they were particularly anxious to win from their neighboring opponents, the Mt. Jackson team. To add to their enthusiasm Mr. Murtland, the Bessemer druggist, promised a "sundae" to each girl playing on the Bessemer team if they won.

W. P. M. I. A. A.

Since Mr. Martin's return to school the orchestra and chorus are busy on their work which they are preparing for the musical contest. The contest, which is to be held in Grove City, will take place in May. The Bessemer orchestra, the girls' glee club and the chorus all expect to compete.

SPRING OPERETTAS

There will be six operettas given by the grades this spring. At the present time the titles are being chosen and the music is being sent for.

For several years these operettas have been presented as a finel summary of the work done in the music department. Without exception the operettas have been successful and the Bessemer public looks forward eagerly to the new ones which are in store for them.

This week the two first grades have received the instruments for their "toy symphony orchestra."

DEBATE WORK

Due to the change in sides for the debate the three faithfuls from the Bessemer team have been hard at work. One afternoon was spent in the library looking up subject matter and many hours are being utilized in rearranging the new material into a usable debate.

NINTH GRADERS BECOME SALESMEN

Tuesday morning the ninth graders listened to a most inspiring talk by Mr. Stirling. These pupils are, at the present time, making a study of occupations so Mr. Stirling's subject, "Salesmanship", was quite appropriate.

Mr. Stirling is a very interesting speaker. He is not only forceful but he really sets his audience into action. By the end of the hour he had organized the class into a contest. The "Wildcats" were to oppose the "Bearcats". Each Wildcat was to wear a red badge while the Bearcats are known by their green pin. Frances Griffin is to be sales manager for the reds and Nick Brentin is to head the greens.

ST. PATRICK'S PARTY

The eighth graders are unable to have their party on St. Patrick's evening, so they are going to have it either on Tuesday or Wednesday evening of next week.

The girls are giving this party to the girls as an exhibition of their cooking. They plan to have appropriate refreshments such as St. Patrick's ice cream, shamrock shaped cookies with green icing. For entertainment they will play various Irish games.

LYCEUM NUMBER

With assisting artists, Lowell Patton will present costumed character studies in music and offer a program that is new, original and artistic.

This impressive entertainment will be given in the Bessemer high school auditorium on Tuesday evening, March 20.

Mr. Patton's assistants are young men of beautiful voice and unquestioned musicianship.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Personal Appearance Of Operatic Stars In New Castle

The music lovers owe the Sisters of the Mount St. Benedict school a vote of thanks for bringing here last evening one of the finest concerts with which the city has ever been favored. The singers charmed their audience from the very beginning of their program when they gave a duet until the close, when a portion of the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana" was given in such a way that persons in the audience said they had never seen famous opera companies in the cities interpret a selection with more beauty or dramatic ability. Mr. St. John, with his beautiful tenor so perfectly controlled and his delightful stage presence, was forced to respond to encore after encore. His voice is especially suited to the beautiful lilting Irish songs and the Spanish and Italian melodies so full of gaiety and beauty characteristic of the Italian melodies and of the Latin races. Miss Taylor in her interpretation won the audience completely with the variations of tone in her beautiful voice, which she used to express joy, sorrow and hatred. The program was the twentieth of a series given by the artists on a tour of the Northwest. They will be at Scottish Rite Auditorium St. Patrick's Day, March 17th., matinee and night.

SCENES FROM CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA BY NEW YORK ARTIST DELIGHT MEMBERS

The New York Artists gave the large audience of women attending the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, a taste of grand opera which, according to all appearances, they greatly enjoyed.

Scenes from Cavalleria Rusticana were presented in costume. The solos and duets were so splendidly sung as to bring several of the opera's most stirring scenes before the imagination of the audience.

To Whom It May Concern:

Margaret Taylor and Vincent St. John have given a concert and operatic recital for the Circolo Ausonia, the Italian Clubo of the University of Wisconsin Faculty, and the Casa Cervantes, the Spanish Club.

I am glad to state that they met with exceptional success and that the audience which had the privilege of hearing them was enthusiastic about their splendid voices and fine art.

THE EYES OF THE WORLD

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyance which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Declare Several Autos Are Stuck In Mud In City

Reports are being received from all parts of the city concerning the extremely bad condition of various dirt streets. The street department is making every possible effort to relieve conditions, but owing to the many miles of such streets and the smallness of the street force, it is impossible in every instance to relieve the resulting conditions as speedily as many may expect.

C. R. Brenner of 1617 Huron avenue, reported that Warren avenue between Huron avenue and East Washington street is in very bad condition and that a machine is stuck there and that he cannot get in or out of his garage.

The car of Frank Stevenson is stuck in the mud in the center of Garfield in front of the Stevenson home, 219 Garfield avenue, and it makes it hard for traffic to get past it.

Congressman Swick also introduced in the house a bill providing for an increased pension for Mrs. Elizabeth G. Garvin, 1701 Highland avenue, New Castle. Mrs. Garvin is the widow of Matthew R. Garvin, late of Company K, 100th regiment, Pennsylvania Valunteer Infantry.

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—The civil service commission today called an examination for candidates for postmaster at Woodlawn, Beaver county, Pa., to fill the vacancy caused by the removal last month of Postmaster Robert C. Simpson, and fixed April 10 as the last day for filing application and examination papers.

Erie Candidate For State Senate In Legal Tangle

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 15. — Contending that several of the signatures on the nominating petitions of William Hamilton, of Erie, who sought to be a candidate for the state senate on the Republican ticket, were incomplete and that therefore the commonwealth was justified in refusing to accept his petitions, Charles Johnson, secretary of the commonwealth today filed an answer to Hamilton's suit in Dauphin county court seeking to compel the state elections bureau to record his candidacy.

Johnson's answer set forth that absence of addresses of signatories and the date of signing invalidated the petitions. He stated further that Hamilton has no recourse in law in the matter.

Oral argument in the case was to be heard in open court today.

Wealthy Chicago Citizens Called In Bond Inquiry

Senate Committee Invades Mid-West In Tangle Over Missing Continental Bonds

HOW WAS DEFICIT WIPED OUT? IS ASKED

Insull, Wrigley, Rosenwald And Getz, All Multi-Millionaires, Before Probers

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, March 15.—Invading the middle west on the search for traces of the Continental Trading company's Liberty Bond "slush fund" a Senate Public Lands sub-committee launched an inquiry here today into reports that the Republican party's deficit from the 1920 campaign amounted to $2,863,000.

The sub-committee, comprising Senators Nye (R.) of North Dakota, and Norbeck (R.) of South Dakota, called a long list of the Republican party's "millionaire angels" in Chicago to learn whether they handled any of Harry F. Sinclair's Liberty Bonds or otherwise helped to reduce this huge deficit in 1923. The senators also wanted to learn what became of a missing $35,000 batch of Sinclair bonds which Will H. Hays, former Republican national chairman, turned over to the late Fred W. Upham, once Republican national treasurer.

"The angel" list of witnesses included William Wrigley, Jr., chewing gum and baseball magnate; George M. Reynolds, banker; Julius Rosenwald, merchant prince, and George F. Getz all multi-millionaires. Thirty-six witnesses were summoned, nearly all wealthy men.

The senate committee wanted to know whether any of these Republican patrons took Sinclair bonds in return for cash contributions. It previously learned that Upham gave $25,000 of a $60,000 shipment of Sinclair bonds to James A. Patten, ex-wheat king in return for a $25,000 cash gift to the Republican party, the other $35,000 was never traced.

Never Accounted For.

The Republican deficit of 1920, paid off finally in 1923, however, overshadowed this angle. According to testimony already given the committee, Chairman Nye announced, the deficit totaled at the most $2,863,000. This figure was established by the testimony of William M. Butler, Republican national chairman, William Hodges, Republican national treasurer and the financial reports filed with the house of representatives in Washington.

"Our experts have figured out that the Republican deficit amounted to $2,863,000 at the close of the 1920 campaign" said Nye. "No such sum has ever been accounted for and we'll have to try to find out who paid that much money into the treasury of the Republican party ,even though all the records were destroyed in 1924."

One of the reports to be investigated here is that men like Insull, Wrigley, Rosenwald, Reynolds and Getz gave huge contributions to wipe out this deficit. It has been shown already that Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and the late John T. Pratt Standard Oil official of New York each gave $50,000 for this purpose.

No Campaign Fund!

Louis J. Wardlaw, Fort Worth, Tex., attorney and ranchman, has announced his candidacy for the state's governorship, declaring that he will pay his own campaign expenses and refusing all contributions from friends. Wardlaw has declared himself in favor of a reward for criminals the same as predatory animals, all the schools money will allow, and reduction of taxes.

Alderman Postpones Hearing Of Case

Mayor Gillespie, as head of the city, today was advised that at the suggestion of Attorney Clyde Gibson, a hearing on writs to have the city return $125, to persons affected by the recent Spinella pool hall raid would be held a week from today. HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

It is going to be too warm for pork by and by, so we will use it while the air is still brisk. Sparerib pie is new to me, so perhaps it will be to some of the readers of this column. Squaw hash is another new dish. The menu is for a whole day. I see by the papers that Vitamin F has just been discovered. It is present principally in liver and lettuce, and is essential to normal animal growth.

Squaw Hash—Fry eight slices of bacon, cut fine. Pour off the fat if there is too much. Then add two cans of corn and one green pepper, washed, seeded and finely chopped. Add salt if necessary, and cook until brown, stirring often to prevent burning.

Sparerib Pie — Wash and cut two pounds of sparerib in pieces, put in kettle with one quart of water, two medium-sized onions cut in pieces. Add salt and pepper to taste. When meat is nearly cooked, add four medium-sized potatoes quartered. Let this cook while you make a crust of one quart of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon salt and one tablespoon butter. Add one-half pint milk.

Mix and roll out one-half inch thick. Thicken stew and pour into a baking dish, cover with crust and bake in oven for about 30 minutes.

Chocolate Prune Gelatin — To one package of prepared chocolate gelatin add one pint boiling water. Let cool, and when about ready to eat add one cup of stewed and stoned prunes cut in small pieces. Serve with whipped cream. This dessert can be made early in the day.

The fellows who are giving Lindbergh medals these days must be descendants of the chaps who used to carry coals to Newcastle.—The Nashville Banner.

Defendant Denies Alleged Assault; Tells Of Drinking

The case of the Commonwealth against John Tervo, charged with assaulting Mrs. Matilda Johnston is still on trial in Lawrence county court before Judge Hildebrand. The defendant went on the witness stand in his own behalf, and denied that he had attempted to assault the woman. He said that they had been drinking together at the home of a friend and when he went out auto riding with Mrs. Johnston that they became involved in a quarrel. It was shown that after the preliminary hearing that Tervo and Mrs. Johnston had come together to an attorney's office and appeared to be friendly toward each other. The case is still on trial.

Perfect health is refreshing

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

WHEN your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning.

Instead, you feel refreshed; ready to meet the world!

Your appetite is keen, you enjoy work or play. Your skin is clear—cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's substance for building and sustaining the body.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—thru the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

S.S.S. Builds Sturdy Health

Library Circulation Shows 16 Per Cent Gain In Year

That the total gain in circulation for the New Castle Public Library during the year of 1927 is 16 per cent was the statement by Miss Alice M. Sterling, librarian, when she read her annual report before the board of trustees of the institution.

"This is indeed gratifying," Miss Sterling went on "and it is evidence that the gain of the first year in the new building was not due merely to the novelty but it is continuing. The adult gain was 10 per cent and the juvenile 24 per cent.

"To the opening of the juvenile-adult department in October is due much of the juvenile gain in circulation. This department is designed for children under 14 years of age who have literary tastes in advance of their years and for those over 14 who do not care for the books in the adult department. This new department seems to be meeting a real need.

"Another factor in the increase in circulation is the library stations: Mahoning school and the Shenango Valley hospital. These circulated 16,993 and 1,409 books respectively. At the hospital 231 patients borrowed books during the year.

Miss Margaret McFate a student at Westminster college ,was the only apprentice trained during the summer. There were no changes in the staff.

"In May in the children's department a bird contest was held and during the summer books were awarded through the courtesy of the Conservation committee of the New Castle Federation of Women's clubs.

"A new department was planned in August to contain books for children under 14 years of age who had developed more catholic tastes in literature and who were not yet ready for the things in the adult department. The south wing of the children's department was used and is now called the Junior-Adult department. This room was opened October 1.

"The result has been a marked increase in circulation and a great many reference questions have been answered. With longer hours and increase in work it was found necessary to employ additional help early in the fall, Miss Alice Morrison was transferred from the adult to the children's department.

"In November the annual Childrens Book Week was held. A display of the newer childrens' books was held in the department, using tables and cases to show the books. Invitations were sent to members of the Parent-Teacher associations throughout the city and during the week about 200 parents came to the library to see the books.

"During the winter several school visits were made, a story hour was conducted which brought 772 children to the library and a picture and pamphlet collection was started, which it is hoped, will prove useful both to students and teachers.

"The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Library association held in Harrisburg, was attended by Clarence A. Patterson and the librarian. Several staff members attended the meetings of the Western Pennsylvania Library club held in Sharon and Grove City.

"The need of library branches presses if the library is to perform an adequate service to the 53,000 people in New Castle. Ideally, each person should be able to reach a library within a half mile of his home. With the present population the book circulation should be at least doubled and this can be done only by bringing the library to the people."

As shown by the librarian's report the total circulation of the library was 115,023 volumes during the year. This makes a daily circulation of 377 volumes. The grand total of the books in the library reaches 17,897 volumes. In the card index there are the names of 12,048 borrowers of books.

During the year more than 90 citizens of New Castle contributed books to the library.

Borer Moths Fly at Night—In answer to the question, "When do corn borer moths fly?" State College entomologists say, "They fly mostly in the dusk of the evening or at night." The moths are not attracted to lights in sufficient numbers to make them effective for trap purposes. Many kinds and colors of lights have been tested but none has proved effective.

Get Hints by Radio—Valuable farm and garden items are broadcast by specialists every Tuesday night, 6:30 to 7:30, from the Pennsylvania State College radio station, WPSC.

Alfalfa is Best Hog Pasture — For hogs, alfalfa is the best pasture obtainable, furnishing a maximum of ideal forage throughout the season, even in dry weather. As many as 20 shoats can be carried on an acre. Try to plant some alfalfa this spring.

Start Hotbeds Now—Now is the time to start hotbeds for early vegetables if not already started. They should be placed in a sheltered corner where they will receive plenty of sunlight.

Plant Trees and Shrubs — March is the planting month for hardy trees, shrubs, vines, and herbaceous perennials. This work can be done best now before the other spring worth on the farm increases.

Repair, Oil, and Adjust Harness — Go over all the harnesses, make repairs and grease them thoroughly. See that the harness fits the horse which is to wear it. An ill-fitting set of harness lowers the efficiency of the animal.

Push Early Lambs — Feed early lambs grain so that they will grow rapidly. They should be in condition to market in June before western competition begins.

SQUIRRELS DESTROY WHITE PINE GROWTH

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 15. — The red squirrel's fondness of the tips of white pine branches is responsible for retarding the growth of many otherwise healthy stands, according to reports made to the Department of Forests and Waters by district foresters.

Examinations made of squirrels in several sections of the State showed that the red squirrels had eaten more than half of the terminal buds. The majority of the damage is done in the winter season.

WOMAN'S GREATEST CHARM DECIDED

Hollywood agrees no one can star without Smooth Skin

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—The public demands exquisite smooth skin in women, say the leading film directors. No girl without a beautiful smooth skin has ever proved popular enough to star. They can't pass the test of the close-up without "Studio Skin," as it's called in Hollywood!

Under the strong blazing Klieg lights the slightest imperfection will show. "The cleverest make-up cannot fake beautiful skin under the blazing lights of the close-up" —as Lewis Milestone, United Artists director, expressed it—"it must be the real thing."

Nine out of ten stars are using Lux Toilet Soap. And in the dressing rooms of the big film companies it is also the "official" soap.

Made by the method France developed for her finest toilet soaps, it gives the skin a wonderful smoothness. "Lux Toilet Soap certainly gives my skin that lovely smoothness we mean by 'Studio Skin,'" says Doris Kenyon, the First National star. Lux Toilet Soap is made by Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Officers said Wenrich declared, just as he started for the penitentiary, "I believe I would rather be in Lucitti's place."

LAD LOST FOR FOUR YEARS FOUND IN JAIL

(International News Service)

LEBANON, Pa., March 15.—Missing from home for nearly four years while his parents regarded him as dead, Charles Norton, 18, has been located in a Harrisburg jail, charged with stealing chickens at Millersburg, Dauphin county.

Nearly four years ago the lad was hired out on the Maurice Meyer farm, at Ebenezer, near here, and on July 18, 1924, he disappeared. County and state police instituted a search but to no avail.

The boy said he broke a cultivator on the Meyer farm, and fearing a reprimand, he ran away. He spent most of his time in Duncannon, Millersburg, and in Conowingo, Maryland.

TONS OF STEEL USED FOR LICENSE TAGS

(International News Service)

WARREN, Pa., March 15. — The business of supervising operation of automobiles in Pennsylvania has swelled into an enormous undertaking, Benjamin Eynon, state registrar of motor vehicles, declared in an address here.

Last year it required 54 carloads of steel to make the state's license tags, two being issued to each car owner, and 13 carloads of paper for blanks needed in the department.

ACTOR HURT IN FALL AS CROWD APPLAUDS

(International News Service)

It was several hours after his admittance to a hospital before he recovered consciousness. Then it was found he suffered severe scalp lacerations.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

QUEEN OF THE BEASTS

By CLYDE WELDON

ELEVEN o'clock on a warm Saturday evening. The stores closed after the day's rush. People returning leisurely from the various movies, in no apparent hurry to exchange the now fairly comfortable outdoor temperature for the stiffiness of the house. A fair-sized crowd near the Pierrot Opera House, watching Bannock's Animals depart.

Bannock's Animals had had a successful week. Twice a day for six days enthusiastic audiences had applauded the pretty tricks of the dogs and Shetland ponies, had grown hilarious over the grotesqueness of the monkeys and had thrilled with delighted terror at the blood-curdling roars of the lions. (Three of them, though they appeared more numerous on the handbills.) And now Bannock's Animals were moving on to another town, and the Pierrot Opera House would once more be given over to the emotional raptures of the "ten, twent, thirt."

The dogs, horses and monkeys were already on their way to the railroad. The male lions had been transferred safely into the waiting van. Last of all came Leona the Queen of Beasts, her roars of ferocious protest mingling with the creaking of the pulleys, as the cage moved slowly downward.

Was the bar securely fastened? Had Leona with her crafty strength forcel it loose? None will ever know. The door swung open as the cage touched the ground, and the lioness stepped majestically forth.

A lion loose in that quiet town! In their wildest imagining none had conceived of a thing like that! Gasping, shrieking, the people fled. Coaxing, begging, the keeper rushed after Leona, only to be brushed imperiously aside. Once again that terrible roar. And a shout rose in the street, carried from one voice to another: "The lion! The lions! Run for your lives!"

Daniel Hinckley strode along, stamping the ground morosely, gritting his teeth, oblivious of all save his gloomy thoughts. The evening, of which he had hoped so much, had proved a dismal failure. Ever since he had met Genevieve Parkenside, that magnificent girl with the glorious auburn hair and the wonderful blue eyes, he had been gathering courage to invite her to the movies. Today he had dared. She was not indignant at his presumption, but had smilingly accepted. So they had gone.

Genevieve was enthralled with the picture. The hero's name was Leander. He was tall and broad-shouldered. And brave! A dozen times he rescued the heroine from almost certain death. He carried her from a burning house, saved her from a gang of thieves, from wild beasts, from bombs. Always did his stalwart form appear at the very moment when his loved one was in greatest danger.

Genevieve had wept, and smiled, and gloried in him. "Isn't he splendid?" she had kept saying. "So tall, so big, and brave! such wonderful eyes! I could love a man like that. He is my ideal!"

But Daniel did not enthuse over Leander. On the contrary, he looked upon his bigness as a personal affront. For Daniel himself was only a bit over five feet in height. His lines ran to scrawniness rather than to stalwartness. And nobody had ever gone into raptures over the wonderfulness of his eyes, possibly because he was very near-sighted, and wore particularly thick glasses.

So he listened glumly to Genevieve's ecstasies. Nor did he feel any more cheerful when she continued them while they sat sipping ice cream, and, afterwards, on the way home. Now, though he was walking alone, the echo of what she had been saying still sounded in his ears.

"So tall!"

"Bah!" said Daniel. He jabbed the sidewalk viciously with the tip of his umbrella. (It had looked like rain when they started out.)

"So big!"

"Bah!" Another jab.

"Such wonderful eyes!"

"Bah!" Jab again.

"Oh, ginger!"

But it was not ginger. It was a banana skin. He had not seen it waiting in his path. His feet slid from under him. His glasses flew off his nose. His umbrella slipped from his hand.

Daniel picked himself up painfully and epithetically. He took stock of damages. Trousers torn, knee bruised, one lens of his glasses smashed, umbrella in an undecided state, neither staying open nor closed. But there was nothing gained by remaining there. He picked up his disabled umbrella, put his glasses in his pocket, and limped on.

Almost immediately he saw a large Newfoundland dog blocking his way. Ordinarily Daniel was fond of dogs. Tonight he was in no mood to be fond of anything. He felt angry at this dog standing in his way. Down came his umbrella on its back resoundingly. "Go away!" he stormed.

The effect was astonishing. The umbrella had refused to close before. It spread open entirely now, started to sail up in the air like a balloon, changed its mind, and dropped down, landing upon the Newfoundland's head, and clasping it fondly in a network of wire ribs. The animal stood perfectly still, evidently too surprised to move.

A man rushed past Daniel. "Good work!" he shouted, and began stroking the Newfoundland's back. "There, there, Leona," he said, "it is all right now."

With one hand he kept on patting her, while with the other he deftly handled something, a collar or chain. (Daniel's near-sighted eyes were not positive.) A huge, covered wagon drove up. A plank slid into place. The big dog moved docilely up the plank into the wagon.

Suddenly Daniel gasped. It was not a Newfoundland dog. It was—he became aware of a lot of people crowded about him. One handed him his umbrella, another clapped him on the back, another asked his name, another inquired where he had learned how to deal with wild beasts. Daniel was about to say he had not known it was a wild beast, but he did not say it. Just in time a vision had come to him.

. . . And next day the vision came true. His picture was in the paper with half a page extolling his bravery. There was talk of a medal. And over the telephone Genevieve's dear voice sounded in his ear.

"My hero!" she cooed.

A Pressing Matter.

"Why didn't you get your trousers pressed?"

"I couldn't."

"Why?"

"Well, every place I'd come to would have a sign, saying, 'Trousers Pressed Inside.'"

"I wanted mine pressed on the outside."

Classifying Grandma.

Little Gene was very anxious to know the age of her aunt, so she asked her grandmother. "I really don't know," said her grandmother. "I'd have to look it up in the family Bible." "Is auntie old enough to be in the Bible?" Gene gasped.

Old Ironsides

By MARGARET TAYLOR

THE town gossip known as "Old Ironsides" because of her heavy steel braces, seated herself in the cane rocker in Mrs. Jones' kitchen. "Don't you just love the smell of newly-baked bread?" she asked exuberantly, her beady black eyes swimming richly and her heavy face beaming.

"Yes," replied the demure Mrs. Jones, lifting a pan of bread from the stove. "But I'm rather glad to see this is the last loaf."

"Yes, I suppose you are," sympathized the gossip. "Now you can sit down and rest a while and we'll chat a bit about about things."

Little Mrs. Jones seated herself very gently on the edge of a kitchen chair while "Old Ironsides" rocked expectantly. Mrs. Jones turned her head undecidedly for a few moments, and then began: "I think it's a shame the way the girls carry on today. Why you'd never believe how silly they are until you have one of your own. Take that Sadie of mine, now—why, from morning till night that child hasn't a sensible thing in her head. She gets up in the morning with just a few minutes to spare; she slips on a few flimsy rags and plasters on some paint and calls herself clothed. She drinks a cup of coffee and chews a bit of toast and calls herself fed; and then she rushes off to the train as fast as her spindle legs can take her. She goes into the office and types all day; but I doubt if she puts a moment's thought on her work; it's all on parties and dances. I don't see how she can give a repspectable day's work to her boss. And the hussy tells me all the girls are the same." This was Mrs. Jones usual tale of woe, and when she concluded it, she heaved a sigh of relief.

The buxom gossip leaned forward on her elbows. "It's a fact; that's all they do. I've been around to all the ladies of the neighborhood and they're all complainin'. Now take that daughter of yourn, what is she aimed for? It's a shore thing she ain't followin' no career or studyin' for no profession. Her motto is just like that of the rest of the shop and office girls. 'I want my man.'

"Take that Ellie Brown from down the road away. She was one of those office girls, trottin' off to the city every day, runnin' out to dances and parties. She kept going pretty fast too fast according to some of the stories that were going around, outlandish stories that I wouldn't have told of no kith nor kin of mine; and I'm glad I ain't got no chick or child in these wild times—but she managed to hook up with this Jimmy fellow and let me tell you that this Jimmy boy is about the same type, travels fast and light-hearted.

"They're all up to it. It ain't like it use tuh be when we was young. But the certain shame of it is that these wild girls get the men. Now if for some reason they stopped getting the men, they'd tone down a bit; but with the men coming free and easy, everything's hunky-dory with them."

"Yes," sighed Mrs. Jones. I suppose it's all true. I suppose that's all Sadie's aiming for; and she doesn't care about anything else. But I'm anxious as to whether or not she'll get a decent man—you hear so much about these heart-breaking sheiks now-a-days, and with the girls as frivolous as they are, goodness knows what's going to happen to them. They'd just as soon run off with any man that stares at them even though it's only a glass eye he's staring with."

The conversation was interrupted by the slamming of the front door. There was a stirring of two pairs of feet, a whispered conference. Then a girl's voice broke out, "Oh, ma's a darling."

"Why," gasped Mrs. Jones, "that's Sadie. So early in the afternoon. Something must be up. Oh, I hope it's nothing serious."

The curtains between the kitchen and the living room was spread apart and Sadie's head appeared with tousled hair and roughed cheeks. "Oh, mom, I want you to meet Mr. Munton," throwing wide the curtain, "my husband. We were married this afternoon."

"Oh," gasped Mrs. Jones, and she brushed at her forehead stupidly.

Sadie's husband was a tall, strapping fellow with a winning smile and just a bit of a swagger. He stepped into the kitchen and kissed Mrs. Jones on the cheek and she trembled all ove

IT IS A MYTH

By JOELLA JOHNSON

MARIE opened the front door to admit the dashing Mr. James. She frowned. Was it possible that her mistress could not fathom this adventurer's duplicity? Old Mrs. Meridian Craste was nearly as ugly and peculiar as her name. How, then, could she suppose that clever Robert James had no ulterior motive in courting her graces?

Undaunted by the maid's stony glare, Mr. James patted her cheek in fatherly fashion. Marie was furious.

"It is not wise, monsieur, to make love to two women in the same house."

"Oh," he replied nonchalantly, "this is very different. As a woman of the world you—"

The girl turned on her heel. She knew exactly what was to follow. But the man hurried to keep pace beside her. "Marie, you know I love you, and I'll prove it tomorrow. Will you trust me and prepare to go away with me?"

Marie's mocking smirk was followed by a deep flush, for Mrs. Craste was descending the stairs. Had she seen and heard all, or only enough to arouse her suspicion of Marie's loyalty? Mrs. Craste chose to ignore the situation if, indeed, she was aware of its existence and the maid curtesied and retired.

Marie was frankly worried. It was difficult to love the cold Mrs. Craste, but she admired for her mistress' kindliness, and was grateful for her protection at a time when no one else believed her. And Marie had never forgotten.

Although she could produce no absolute proof, Marie was convinced that Robert James harbored an uncanny plan to rob the old lady.

The woman's wealth was proverbial, it was said that fully half her fortune was tied up in the famous Obb band, a peculiar arrangement of perfect diamonds worn tightly about the throat. Of late, much publicity had been centered upon this collection of jewels due to an attempt to steal it.

That evening Marie was arranging Mrs. Craste's coiffure. "I wish my hair to look particularly lovely tonight. Marie. I am to attend a studio party with Mr. James. Perhaps I shall wear my necklace."

"But, Madame," the maid protested, "the risk would be too great. You do not know these people well."

"They are friends of Mr. James', "her tone implying that this distinction furnished sufficient recommendation, "and they are giving him a farewell party. He sails for Europe tomorrow, you know."

Marie nearly groaned. A farewell party to the Obb band was more in order the maid thought. She had tried to warn Mrs. Craste of her danger, but her insinuations had fallen on barren ground. The poor woman evidently could bear to think that Mr. James was attracted by anything but her personal magnetism.

Marie heard the doorbell ring. She became panic-stricken. She wondered how she could possibly save her foolish mistress from the result of her folly. She heard one of the other servants admit Mr. James. With cold, trembling fingers, she fastened the clasp of the Obb necklace, as directed, and held open a wrap.

The telephone extension rang. Mrs. Craste seemed amused at the message. "Some crank," she told Marie. "Said that an attempt would be made to rob me this evening. How quaint!"

Mrs. Craste seldom allowed herself more than two cocktails, for it had been her experience that after the third she was credited with remarks that she did not recall having made. Hence, having overstepped her limit during the evening, she was not in a fit condition to say whether her imagination had been playing pranks or the lights really did go out. At any rate, when she was again conscious of a lighted room she discovered that the fortune that had been strung around her unlovely neck was gone.

But there were three additional men in the room, each threateningly pointing pistols at the merrymakers.

"We got a call from your home, Mrs. Craste, and we see we're not a bit too soon. Someone in this room has the famous Obb band. Nobody move!"

Mrs. Meridian Craste indifferently gazed over the assembled guests. Robert James had mysteriously disappeared. She smiled. "You are quite wrong, gentlemen. I did not wear the Obb band this evening."

Mrs. Craste found Marie impatiently awaiting her return.

Nervously, the girl removed her mistress' garments and loosened her hair.

"What is the trouble, Marie?"

"The Obb necklace—it is gone!"

"The Obb necklace. Oh, yes. Marie, was it not you who instigated that mysterious telephone message?"

"I had my brother call, Madame."

"And, of course, it was you who notified the detectives."

She merely nodded.

"The Obb band has caused you much concern, has it not, Marie? Well, do not worry about it further. In the morning telephone my jeweler and have him make me up another. The pattern, I believe, is in his possession."

"But, Madame, the cost."

"The cost, Marie, is exactly $50."

Marie looked her surprise.

"You think me a fool, Marie. Well, perhaps I am one. But what is one to do when one is old and still retains the young woman's interests. Alas, I have never outgrown the desire for flattery and attention and—don't ever dare breathe it to a soul—adventure! Seven times have such necklaces been stolen from me, preceded by experiences which have amused and interested me! Only once has the thief had the questionable taste to return the worthless glass, together with his compliments. Is it all not worth the few dollars expended?"

"Yes, Madame, but where is the famous Obb band?"

"The famous Obb band, Marie, is a myth!"

An awed maid tucked the cover under her mistress' chin and turned off the electric switch."

"Marie."

"Yes, Madame?"

"Do you know, I almost believe that it would be worth half my worldly goods to see Mr. James' face when he examines the Obb band more closely."

Social Worker.

"Janet has taken up slumming. Says she's going to try to brighten the lives of individuals less fortunate than herself."

"How does she go about it?"

"She tells them about the good times she has had at the last few dances."

STRANGERS

By PARKE WHITNEY

"NATIVES." Mary Ann tapped a tiny foot against the fat, red barrel and looked out across the harbor. The sun was shimmering its last purple light on the water. Soon the sunset, which Mary Ann knew so well, would fade, the brilliant sky grow gray, colorless, and the water dark. She could hear the chug-chug of her father's motorboat coming in, loaded with fish. Now she could see him, silhouetted, standing in the stern, guiding the smelly boat across the path made by the sun. Natives, that was what they were. Fisher-people! Mary Ann scowled and tapped both feet more fiercely.

A motor horn sounded and a roadster rumbled over the uneven boards of the fish wharf. A girl leaped over the two French horns. "Captain Eldridge in yet?"

"No," Mary Ann answered shortly, taking in the details of the other girl. A blue dress, a close blue hat, pearls at her throat.

"When do you expect him?"

"He's coming now." She looked towards the sea.

"Tell him to bring up, right away, eight pounds of mackerel to Mrs. Clayton Smith's residence. Please." She added this as an after-thought and abruptly backed the car out of sight.

Without waiting for her father to dock, Mary Ann rushed into the fish house, tripped over a pile of rope heaped on the floor, and tore a piece from the margin of a two weeks' old Monitor. Then, scribbling the girl's message, she stuck it to the fat, red barrel with her 50-cent gold and emerald bar pin. "My husband shall buy me diamonds and real emeralds." She laughed to herself and ran from the wharf.

A week later Mary Ann was on the beach. She wore a gay cretonne cape over a short, black silk suit. Peacocks, bright blue and green, drooped from her shoulders in a background of pink, purple and yellow flowers. A sea-green cap was pulled over her hair. She lolled lazily and played with the sand. Would anyone speak to her? she wondered. The crowd had come down to the beach, some playing ball, shouting; others rushing into the water.

"I'll duck you! Look out!"

"No fair. It's a foul."

"Second base under water."

"Run, Sally, run. Too bad. You're out."

She could hear their shouts; could see them as they played in the water, diving from the hotel raft, swimming out to boats anchord off shore. More and more passionately Mary Ann yearned to escape—the Natives.

It was nearly 1 o'clock. Most of the crowd had left the beach when she saw a man—yes, dressed all in white—slowly coming down the beach. First he stopped, bent over, picked up a shell. Next a stone, tossed it far into the sea. He was coming closer. A nice face. Tanned, with a little red. Perhaps he had been fishing.

Fishing! She did not want to think of fish. But the way the Summer people fished. So different. Clean boats, a skipper, luncheon packed in neat baskets, and sandwiches wrapped in paraffin paper. The stranger saw her; came towards her. He sat down beside her.

Mary Ann saw Allan Kendricks after that every day for a week. They swam together, walked far down the beach, sometimes toward the life saving station, or sometimes in the other direction, toward the hotels by the pretty Summer cottages with their flower gardens and big chimneys.

"Mariana," Allan asked (they were lying on the sand, watching the gulls flying in great circles), will you go to the dance with me tonight? Will you, Mariana?" She had told him to call her that.

She looked up at Allan. Her eyes glowed. She smiled.

"The hotel?"

"No. The tearoom."

Mariana frowned. The tearoom. She could not go there—yet. For there on the rough floor both Summer people and Natives danced. Danced and jostled elbows to the merry tunes of the Ramblers. One supercilious, the other gaping.

"Oh, let's go somewhere else." She laughed carelessly. "There are so many places on the Cape."

"Have your own way, but we will have to go in my car."

Mariana's heart burst. One of the great cars, low and powerful. "Because the family's using theirs tonight. It's a Word." He apologized. It was after the dance. Mariana, in a smart pink crepe dress which she had laboriously made for the occasion, sat dreaming, and wondering just how long she could keep her secret. Meeting him at the hotel, running out a back door at night, then across the flats. But she was happy, really happy, in spite of the Ford.

"Let's go down on the fish wharf and park—just for the atmosphere," Allan teased. Mariana hardly recognized her own voice.

"No," she cried wildly. "Any place but there. Please."

So they drove off down the boulevard into a pine woods—deep, dark and fragrant.

"Mary Ann."

Mariana looked up quickly. "Why did you call me that?"

"Oh, I dunno. I hate Mariana. It's so sort of formal. Mary Ann's cosey and warm. You don't mind?"

But Mary Ann's face was buried in a rough shoulder. She was crying softly.

"I just can't help it," she sobbed, answering his whispered question. "Oh, I do love you so, but I have something awful and horrible to confess. It will spoil everything."

Mary Ann could not finish, for Allan's arms were around her, his face close to hers. Mary Ann, listen to me, darling, first. I'm not the swell New Yorker you think me." He rushed headlong. "I'm just a Native from up in Orleans. These clothes even aren't my own. A boarder's, a young chap staying at the house this Summer. What shall I do? What can we do?" He looked helplessly at the pretty girl in his arms.

Mary Ann sighed. "Oh, Allan, it's been a lovely dream." A sudden moonbeam lit her face. "A pretty dream for both of us. We shall never forget it. For I'm a Native, too."

Even kings Complain.

The New York World's Bureau in Rome reports that when the king of Italy was signing some state paper he dropped his handkerchief. Mussolini picked it up and said, "I trust your Majesty will allow me to keep this as a souvenir." "I fear not," answered the king. "It is the one thing left which you let me put my nose into."

Mrs. Aye—How is your daughter getting on with her music?

Mrs. Bee—Fine! Her teacher says she plays Mozart in a manner that Mozart would never have dreamt of himself.

THE REWARD

By CLAIRE WESSON

OLD Sarah Rogolsky watched the door of the tiny parlor close behind the tall young form of Bertha's sweetheart and turned back to her bread mixing, dejection in every line of her stolid, work-worn figure. Into her brown eyes, dimmed with years of close application to the sewing which had eked out her husband's meager earnings, there crept heartbreak, such heartbreak as only those can know who have seen a long cherished dream vanish forever.

"I can't bear it," her heart whispered again and again. "My baby—my little Bertha! Ah, dear Lord, not a life like mine! Give her the happiness I missed. Don't make her a slave of want. My baby girl!

So this was to be the reward of her years of ceaseless toil! Her beautiful Bertha, the baby of her flock of eight, the last of her brood, was going to leave her, was going to marry Sam Levenson—just Sam, who had always lived in even greater poverty than their own around the corner. Her Bertha, slender and graceful and lovely as a goddess, Bertha, for whom she had dreamed of wealth and joy, Bertha, was to leave her and marry Sam Levinson, and live on the pitifully small wages of a sweat-shop worker. Bertha . . . Bertha!

In inarticulate anguish the mother rocked back and forth. She knew the bitterness of unavailing rebellion against fate. What was to be, would be. Why cry out against life?

And still, she must cry out. All the accumulated hatred of dire necessity, of the endless struggle to keep the wolf from the door, raged in her breast. She thought back over the long years; the flight from imperial Russia, through incredible hardships, that had left her features pinched and old at 25; the years when their slender means had never caught up with their most urgent needs; the four deaths that had added doctor and funeral bills to their other troubles, even while they took away four little bodies, no longer to be fed. Then the few years of comparative comfort, when the remaining children grew up and could add their mite to the family purse; the gradual drifting of the three oldest into homes of their own; and the last two years, when her task had been lightened by hope for Bertha—hope that the baby she worshipped would marry well and enjoy a life of wealth and comfort, to compensate her own years of hardship. And now . . . !

The door of the parlor opened and the two young people, naively and openly loving each other, came into the kitchen.

"I'm going to make some coffee for Sam, mamma," said Bertha gaily. "Coffee and some of those nice little cakes you made yesterday, Mamma," glancing sharply at her, "you've been crying."

"No," her mother denied. "No, Bertha."

Sam, always sensitive, with a keenness of intuition rare in a man, divined her emotions. He dropped to his knees beside her and took her hard, red hands tenderly in his.

"Listen, Mamma Rogolsky," he said, "I know. You've worried about Bertha. You think I can't take care of her."

"You don't earn enough, Sam," wailed old Sarah. "I been so poor all my life. . . . I hate it . . ."

"So do I," declared Sam. "You don't think I'd marry Bertha and tie her down to washboard and hard work like you and my mother have always had?"

Sarah looked at him, her eyes mutely questioning. What more could a sweat-shop worker provide for his wife?

Sam's voice rose a little, in male self-satisfaction. "I've got a surprise for you. I've been studying! Ever since I had to leave school. I've been studying. I've studied drafting and yesterday I threw up my job in the shop. Next week I'm going into an architect's office. And I'm going to keep on studying. I've got ideas; some day I'm goin to design big buildings myself."

"Sam!" breathed the two women in unison. It was as much a surprise to Bertha as to her mother. "Sam!" And Bertha's arms were thrown ecstatically about his neck.

Then they had to call Papa to hear the glad news, and Papa Rogolsky unearthed a little wine, and they drank to the happiness of the young people. And then the father, in his unobtrusive way, went back to bed, and Sam and Bertha disappeared into the parlor.

Sarah Rogolsky swayed back and forth again in the kitchen rocker. In how few moments can life change from sorrow to joy!

Into her illiterate mind, slow to give birth to new thought, came a philosophy such as the more erudite have often failed to perceive. It was better so, far better. She had been wrong to want great wealth for her baby. It was not fitting that her Bertha, a child of poverty, with only the simple education of the very poor, should marry a man of wealth. Even though he would love her beauty, he would despise her ignorance, he would despise her lowly parentage. After all, much money (and to Sarah money had till this moment signified everything) would have brought Bertha only another sort of unhappiness. Nobody could successfully rise from ignorance and poverty to sudden wealth and position. It was better for everything to be gradual. Sam would make good—he had already proven it. He would be able to provide more comfort for his wife and a better education for his children than she and Papa Rogolsky had. And Bertha's children, instead of being brought up to despise their grandparents, would come for every Sabbath to her home. Her old age would be surrounded with love and hope, and she could always be at hand, ready to help Bertha over the rough places. Better so; far better so; far better.

And Papa Rogolsky, just dozing off, was started into wakefulness and sat bolt upright in bed, listening with unbelieving ears to his wife, rocking and singing in her kitchen.

Singing!

It was many years since Sarah Rogolsky had sung.

Why Baseball Men Go South.

Though I know a lot of people,
Who consider Winter nice,
I am sick of bucking blizzards
And of slipping on the ice.
So I'm packed and I'll be going
Where warm zephyrs fan the grass,
And I find the ice appealing,
As it tinkles in a glass.

Whips Boy, Sued

Judge and jury are in disagreement at Kansas City, Mo., on the question of a teacher's right to whip a boy for failure to give correct answers to questions. A verdict of $1,500 damages against Miss Mary Hickman, the teacher, above, for whipping Edwin Christman, third grade pupil, has been set aside by Judge C. A. Burney. Edwin's parents maintained that he was permanently injured as a result of the whipping. The judge declared that Miss Hickman had a right to conduct herself as a parent in the classroom.

Abandoned Car Found In County

Machine Had Been Stripped Of Most Everything Of Value

State Police Officer Muncee and City Officer Thomas Lynch yesterday investigated the report that there was an abandoned car near the Weinschank green houses and at the point the Western Allegheny crosses the road leading to South New Castle Boro.

The officers on their arrival found a 1924 model Buick Sedan, which had been stripped of license plates, tires and battery.

After stripping, the person abandoning the car evidently took the gasoline from the tank and saturated the interior of the car and every part that was inflammible with the evident object of destroying it by fire.

It is the belief of the police that it was a stolen machine and that the thieves had intended to burn it up after taking the parts they wanted. They had evidently been frightened away before they could complete their job.

The engine number of the machine was secured and an effort will be made to establish the ownership of the car.

Jury Makes Quick Time In Convicting Man With 45 Quarts

One Hour From The Time Jury Was Sworn Joe Diodate Was Found Guilty

It took a jury in Judge Chambers' court room just one hour to hear evidence and convict Joe Diodate of transporting liquor. Diodate was the man recently captured by Motorcycle Policeman Criswell after an exciting chase over several south New Castle streets. Diodate had 45 quarts of liquor in his car. The case was taken up yesterday afternoon, the jury heard the story of Criswell and others and in one hour from the time the case was called had returned a verdict of guilty.

It was claimed that Tribble, who is a colored man, had sold liquor to a man in a house on Shenango street.

Edna Taylor, colored, charged with possessing liquor, is on trial before Judge Chambers this afternoon. It is claimed that when Officer Thomas with others visited her home she was found pouring liquor from a quart jar into the sink. She denies the charge and claims that she was at the sink washing dishes.

This Will Be Signal To Motorists Not To Break Into Line

Funeral processions in the future are to be designated by illuminated headlights, Mayor William Gillespie stated today after a conference with Wyatt R. Campbell, funeral association official. In the past posters have been glued to windshields.

Mayor Gillespie said that in the past some cars have got in the procession because they did not know the line of cars was a funeral procession.

"When the cars are ready to start from the home, lights should be burned. They should be kept burning until the cemetery is reached or until the cars are out of the city," he stated.

Automobilists are not allowed to operate their cars between funeral procession machines.

POLICEMAN AND WIFE RELIEVED BY TEN HERBS

Officer Says Medicine Is Wonderful; Gave Couple Perfect Health.

"There is no mistake about it—your Ten Herbs is certainly a wonderful medicine," was the statement of Mr. Edwin H. Ebeling, well-known motorcycle policeman, living at 18 Greenbush Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine. "After taking several bottles, I feel better than I have for two years," continued Mr. Ebeling, who has been on the Pittsburgh police force for six years. "Your medicine also restored my wife's health.

"I was troubled with constipation and sluggish liver. I had bilious attacks, and dizzy spells occasionally. Riding a motorcycle continually, I think, caused my kidneys to become inactive, as I had severe pains across my back. I was troubled considerably with indigestion. Food would sour and form gas, which would bloat me, and at times I became nauseated. Particles of sour food would arise in my throat, and I was so nervous that I could not sleep properly.

"Ten Herbs made a wonderful change in me. My bowels are regular, and I have lost the habit of taking physics. I have a good appetite and am rid of gas, bloating, and that nauseated feeling. My liver and kidneys are working fine. Biliousness has left me, and I have no more pains across my back. My nerves are more quiet, and I get a good night's sleep. In fact, I feel better in every respect.

"My wife also was troubled with indigestion and constipation. Ten Herbs did me so much good, that I influenced her to use it. She is a well woman now. We give Ten Herbs all the credit for our present good health, and gladly endorse your medicine to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results. Free sample given.

$647 per Acre from Potatoes

514 Bushels Per Acre Grown with "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers

Last season J. B. Moore & Sons, of Garland, Warren Co., Pa., like thousands of other successful farmers, used "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer on their potatoes. They raised one of the finest potato crops in all Pennsylvania. Their yield was 514 bushels of potatoes per acre and their income from this field was $647 per acre. Note what J. B. Moore & Sons say about "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer in their letter of October 5, 1927:

"For many years we have been using 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer exclusively and have obtained uniformly satisfactory results. This year we used 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer and the yield of potatoes was 514 bushels per acre."

It's the extra yield per acre of potatoes, corn, or any other crop that writes the extra entries in the bank book. Scores of enthusiastic letters come to us from successful growers who use "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers and get extra yields and extra profits.

The letters printed here—a few of the thousands received—are from successful farmers. They speak of facts and tell of results.

"AA QUALITY" Fertilizers are painstakingly and scientifically made for each crop and each locality. They are manufactured by the largest fertilizer company in the world.

"AA QUALITY" Fertilizers are completely mixed, cured, and remilled to ensure perfect mechanical condition. Experts in crop culture have determined their exact plant-food elements.

You can get a larger yield from your acres—and a better yield too. Insist that your dealer give you "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers this season.

BEST GOODS ON MARKET . . . Mr. R. L. Tay & Sons, of Library, Allegheny County, Pa., says: "We used four tons of Agrico Fertilizers ('AA QUALITY') during the 1927 season on truck, sweet corn, oats and fruit. The results were very satisfactory. We have used other makes of fertilizers, but from the results obtained this year from 'AGRICO' Fertilizers, we find that they are the best goods on the market and we will use Agrico exclusively next season."—Dec. 9, 1927.

20 BUSHELS EXTRA OAT YIELD . . . Mr. Frank Stowell, Overseer, Chautauqua County Poor Farm, Dewittville, Chautauqua County, N. Y., says: "This year the average yield for the 30 acres of oats planted was 50 bushels, 10 acres of which produced 52 bushels, and seven acres yielded 57.3 bushels. I attribute the growth of this crop to the use of 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer, figuring that the yield was increased about 20 bushels per acre through the use of this make."—Aug. 31, 1927.

GAIN OF 100% WITH "AA QUALITY" . . . Mr. H. D. Converse of Clifton Springs, Ontario County, N. Y., says: "I am sending picture of where we sowed Listers Fertilizer ('AA QUALITY') beside another company's make, and you can see while the Listers Fertilizer has shown me a gain of 100% the other fertilizer has been a detriment, as the results would have been better had I not used anything. It is with pleasure that I recommend 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers. Uniform quality and results are assured, as well as the best buy for the money on the market."—Sept. 14, 1927.

The Water Route To Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Water is a potent invigorator. It dissolves and distributes the food you take, and if you are overweight, water has a double advantage. In the first place, it helps to allay hunger—a very important feature when you're trying to discipline your body into a perfect 36, and it keeps the system clear.

While I was in London last year I was present at a medical conference, and was most interested in learning that the most prominent authorities have accredited water with the necessary attributes which make it a vehicle for bodily electricity and magnetism—great factors in achieving that glowing, radiant beauty we all seek.

Hardly one out of ten people drink enough water. The body needs eight full glasses a day.

There is no more healthful heritage a mother can give to a child than an encouraged appetite for water drinking. Doctors and baby specialists have been stressing the importance of giving infants definite feedings of water from the very first day of life. So many mothers think that an all-liquid diet precludes the necessity of extra fluid. Remember not only for your child, but for yourself—nothing will take the place of water!

There is hardly need to talk of the necessity for a daily bath. Americans have taken cleanliness closely to heart. A young builder told me that when he planned "sure-fire sales" in houses these days he spent one day planning the open fireplaces—another on closet space, and a third on the beauty and utility of the bathroom fixtures. Warm baths are soothing, cleansing and quieting to tired nerves. Cold baths, showers or dips are tonic-y and stimulating.

Remember, too, that cold water is a simple and excellent astringent, solidifying the flesh and soothing the skin. In blustery and uncertain weather it is a worth while precaution to splash very cold water on neck and throat and chest before going out. Cold water closes the pores and radically decreases the risk of colds. Water for the eyes, the nose and the throat—water for the stomach and the intestines—water for the body, and by all means—water by the quart, please!—for beauty.

Delay In Trial Of Election Cases Charged By Bar

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 15.—Accusations that Republican leaders sought to delay the disposal of 200 election fraud cases in the courts here by employing only one lawyer to handle all were hurled today by the special committee of the Allegheny Bar Association named to assist in election fraud prosecutions.

But two election fraud cases can be tried simultaneously, and at that rate it would be two years before all cases are cleared up. When the first case was called, Attorney Rody P. Marshall, the lawyer for each of the 200 defendants, failed to report in court or to request a postponement. It was reported that Marshall was busy in another court.

"The purpose of the delay evidently behind the naming of one attorney to represent all the indicted officials is accomplished by this move," said Joseph Stadtfeld, president of the Bar Association. "It is an unfortunate situation."

Illustrate Sermon At Central Christian

Evangelist Walker Gives Another Of His Excellent Chart Messages

Many strange faces were seen in the audience last night at the Central Christian church where a great evangelistice campaign is in progress and heard Evangelist Walker deliver another one of his excellent chart sermons.

The music being conducted by Samuel Lewis is receiving many favorable comments especially his solos. Another special at last evening's service was the presence of the Young People's Council Orchestra that rendered great assistance.

As Mr. Walker began his sermon on the subject, "The Ark the Type of the Church," he read many passages of Scripture from both the Old and the New Testament, bearing upon this subject and said that Noah builded the ark exactly as God gave him the instructions. There was one door which typifies the door which Christ in the church and all must come that way to be saved—reject Him and all is lost. He further said that there was only one window in the ark which was to send light upon the divinely favored who are within. Many people in New Castle were one time in the spiritual ark have become tired and have jumped overboard into the sea of sin and perished. Three souls responded to the impressive invitation and confessed their faith in Christ. Tonight the evangelist will preach another chart sermon on the subject, "Lost and Found." Many candidates will be baptized at the close of the service.

Reject Signature Sent Via Radio

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 15.—The signature of Ralph Beaver Strassburger, millionaire Norristown publisher, sent from London to New York by radio recently, was in effect a photograph, and as such was not acceptable as a legal substitute for Strassburger's personal signature affixed to his nominating petitions, the Dauphin county court en banc held in a formal ruling today.

The ruling, supplementing the court's recent action in refusing the publisher a preemptory writ of mandamus, classifies the photoaradiogram sent by Strassburger in the same status as a photograph and further states that in the affidavit which Strassburger sent from London in an effort to make his nominating petitions for Republican delegate at large legal, he did not and could not pledge his personal oath not to [illegible] election laws or corrupt practice acts.

Charge Cripple With Shooting Of Dr. G. A. Kelly

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., March 15.—Joseph Comiskie, 22, a cripple is held here on a first degree murder charge for the alleged murder of Dr. Gerald A. Kelly, of Jessup, bore a long standing resentment against the former Philadelphia physician, police today charged.

Comiskie, who was attended by Dr. Kelly two years ago when the former lost his leg in a mine accident, was captured in a Scranton theatre a few hours after the doctor was shot to death in his office in Jessup. Cornered in the theatre, the youth drew a revolver and attempted to shoot his way to freedom, police said, but a man sitting nearly seized the cripple's arm and a near panic ensued, as theatre patrons fled for the exits.

Gas Forces Woman To Sleep In Chair

"Nights I had to sit up in a chair, I had stomach gas so bad. I took Adlerika and nothing I eat hurts me now and I sleep fine."—Mrs. Glenn Butler.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline, etc., (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that often poisoned the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, writes: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and bacilli."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you the great amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you would never believe was in your system. In chronic constipation, gas bloating, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists.

We love these sweet whiter washes that we get with this hard-water soap

IT'S now so easy to keep Ann in fresh, clean clothes. I can wash her little frocks whiter, brighter than ever—so easily.

I use Rinso, the famous granulated hard-water soap. Rinso suds are marvelous. So creamy and lasting. They loosen the dirt and stains safely, without the help of bar soaps, chips, powders or softeners.

When I take the clothes from the washer, they're spotless. Sweet as clover, and the whitest white ever! I've even given up boiling the wash since I changed to Rinso; it isn't necessary any more.

Now I can see why so many washing machine demonstrators use Rinso—and why the makers of 32 leading washers recommend it.

Many of my neighbors use Rinso for tub washing. They say it saves scrubbing—and so saves the clothes and the hands, too.

Why don't you get the BIG package of Rinso from your grocer today?

Uncover Donations Of Chicago Man To Republican Chest

Secretary To William Wrigley Tells Senate Committee Of Donations

Wealthy Lumberman Admits Contributions To Help Pay Off Party Deficit

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, March 15.—A picture of Republican opulence in which rich business men made lavish gifts today at the senate's inquiry here into what became of the Continental Trading Company's $3,000,000 Liberty Bond slush fund.

William Wrigley, Jr., the multi-millionaire baseball and chewing gum magnate gave the Republicans $61,000 between 1920 and 1924, according to William Henry Stanley, his secretary.

Stanley denied though that Wrigley had received any of Henry F. Sinclair's Liberty bonds in return for his cash gifts.

Senator Nye, Republican, conducted the examination of witnesses.

Edward Hines, wealthy lumberman, the first witness, told of giving the Republicans about $12,500 over the same period. Te told of first giving $2,000 in 1920.

Records Destroyed

Hines said all his records of Republican contributions prior to October 1924 had been destroyed by a fire in December last year.

"Did you make a contribution of $5,000 in 1921, 1922, or 1923."

"I may have. That seems possible. It was not more than that."

Hines said his 1924 gift was made at the solicitation of B. A. Eckhart, millionaire miller of Chicago.

"I met Mr. Eckhart at a directors' meeting and he asked me to contribute, so I did."

"Was the suggestion made that you could hold some securities in return for your contribution?"

"No, sir, no such suggestion was made."

Hines said he owned Liberty bonds but that he had not received them from any person connected with the Republican party.

Broadcasting Of Convention News Is Made Possible

Both Republican And Democratic Conventions To Be Heard Over Radio

BIG HOOK-UP IS BEING ARRANGED

Estimate Many Millions Will Have "Radio Seats" At Big Conventions

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The greatest "air audience" that ever listened to the broadcasting of a public event will hear the details of the nomination of the next president of United States.

Plans were in development today for a remarkable hook-up that will connect the auditoriums of the Republican National convention at Kansas City and the Democratic gathering in Houston with all big broadcasting stations.

The dramatic and stormy process of selecting the candidates will be carried to stations in every state—there are few areas so remote that its people cannot have a ring-side seat at the conventions, provided they can get to a radio-speaker.

In addition to arrangements being perfected by the chain broadcasting companies, it was anticipated that several of the larger independent stations will have microphones in the convention halls, to give their audiences special interpretation of the political spectacles.

Expect Big Sale

Twice as many Americans will hear the conventions broadcast as listened in on the Cleveland and New York meetings four years ago. Commerce department officials estimated that there will be nearly 8,000,000 radio receivers in use at convention time, more than double the number of 1924.

The politicians' audiences will be many-fold larger than ever before, it will be a campaign carried literally into the homes—few who owns a radio can avoid becoming familiar with the various issues involved.

Reports to the national radio manufacturers association indicate that the producers are preparing for a tremendous sale of receivers just before the convention. With these and other national events to be broadcast during the summer some experts felt that radio manufacturing would begin to lose its seasonal characteristics and become an all-the-year-around industry, an economic step of significance to general prosperity. Manufacturers anticipate that retail sales this year will exceed the $500,000,000 of last year.

Public School At Freedom Is Fire Damaged

(International News Service)

FREEDOM, Pa., March 15.—Four hundred pupils in public school escaped from the building shortly before noon when fire damaged a portion of the structure. Parents flocked to the building when the alarm was sounded and excitement reigned.

The fire started in the basement under a room occupied by grade six pupils and burned through into that room. The children there rushed to the streets without obtaining their wraps. As soon as the alarm was sounded teachers in the other rooms marshaled their children and marched them from the upper floors to safety. Some of the pupils thought it was a fire drill.

The school is on a hillside, three rooms with fifth and sixth grade pupils occupying the ground floor. The second floor contained pupils from the first to fifth grades and the third floor the junior high school pupils.

Damage was estimated at $1,500.

Woman Confesses To Slaying Sister, Son Serving Time

Tortured By Thoughts Of Son Serving Sentence, Prompts Mother To Make Confession

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 15.—Tortured by the thought of her son languishing in a prison cell for a crime which she says he did not commit, Mrs. Minnie Reisler today confessed the murder six years ago of her sister, Mrs. Bertha Katz.

Mrs. Reisler declared in an affidavit that she shot her sister to terminate a liason between Mrs. Katz and her husband, known as "John the Barber," Broadway sporting character and one-time manager of Jack Dempsey.

"John the Barber" was in the public eye sixteen years ago as a witness in the trial of Lieut. Charles Becker, who was electrocuted for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Although Mrs. Reisler admitted the shooting of her younger sister soon after it occurred on July 26, 1922, her son Morris, then 24, insisted on pleading guilty.

Morris was sentenced to twenty years to life imprisonment in Sing Sing. He has already served six years of that sentence.

After his sentence, indictments against Mrs. Reisler, another son, George, and Mrs. Reisley's brother, Max Katz, were dismissed.

Mrs. Reisley said in part in her confession that her son's plea of guilty was false and was made only that he might save me, his mother, from the penalty for the crime. From the time of my arrest in connecting with the shooting, I told the truth. I said that I had taken my sister's life because she had wrecked my home, destroyed my happiness and humiliated my children.

"I can no longer bear the thought of his being confined there, in expiation of an offense that is mine, not his, and I am prepared to make any sacrifice that will obtain his liberty."

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

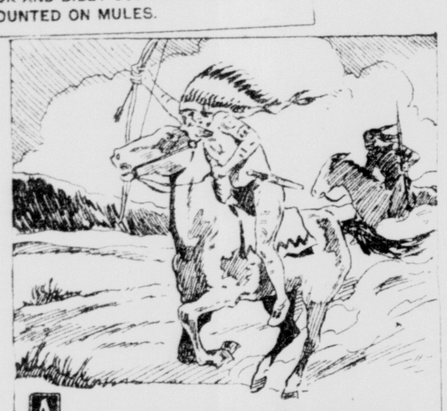
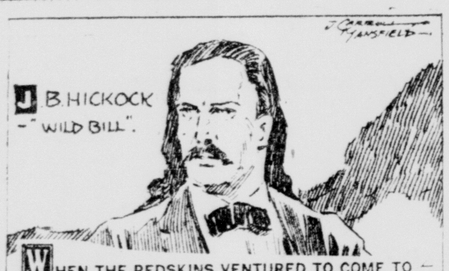
Buffalo Bill, Scout Of Scouts—Part XVI
An Adventure On The Trail

EN ROUTE FROM FORT BRIDGER TO LEAVENWORTH THE TWO RUSSELL, MAJORS AND WADDELL WAGON TRAINS BECAME SEPARATED. SIMPSON, THE "BULL-WAGON BOSS," WHO WAS WITH THE SECOND TRAIN, SET OUT TO OVERTAKE THE LEADING CARAVAN, TAKING "WILD BILL" HICKOCK AND BILLY CODY WITH HIM. THE TRIO WAS MOUNTED ON MULES.



AS THEY DREW NEAR CEDAR BLUFFS, TWENTY INDIANS IN WAR-PAINT CAME DASHING OUT OF A CANYON AND CHARGED TOWARD THEM WITH BLOOD-CURDLING YELLS. AT SIMPSON'S COMMAND, EACH OF THE THREE QUICKLY SHOT HIS MULE.

THEN THE CARCASSES WERE DRAGGED TOGETHER TO FORM A LOW BARRICADE AND THE TRIO PREPARED TO MEET THE ATTACK. FORTUNATELY, THE HOSTILES WERE ARMED ONLY WITH BOWS AND ARROWS, AND AS THEY RODE IN A WIDE CIRCLE THE WHITE MEN COOLLY BEGAN TO PICK OFF THEIR PONIES.



WHEN THE REDSKINS VENTURED TO COME TO CLOSE QUARTERS, THREE OF THEM WERE PROMPTLY SHOT FROM THEIR MOUNTS. DISCONCERTED BY THIS RECEPTION, THE INDIANS RETIRED SOME DISTANCE AND SETTLED DOWN TO WAIT FOR THE DEFENDERS TO MAKE A MOVE. THREE HOURS LATER, THE CRACK OF WHIPS WAS HEARD, AND THE HEAD OF THE SECOND WAGON TRAIN CAME IN SIGHT OVER A RIDGE. THE INDIANS SPEEDILY VANISHED, AND OUR HEROES WERE SAVED FROM THEIR PERILOUS POSITION.

New Castle High To Battle "Dukes" For League Title

New Castle High School Basketball Team Ready For Championship Game

Kowallis And Kocheran Loom As Threats To Red And Black Five

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Can New Castle High School basketball team duplicate their feat of last year? This is the question that is being asked at the breakfast tables and lunch counters in this man's domain today.

Tomorrow night at the University of Pittsburgh stadium floor the New Castle and Duquesne High quintets will battle for the championship of the W. P. I. A. L. Both teams have earned the right to try for the title by mopping up on the opposition that has confronted them.

Third Meeting

Strange it is that New Castle High School should be called upon to face the Duquesne High team again this year. It is getting to be a habit to wit:—In the 1926 tourney New Castle High School made their first journey to the Pitt Stadium and were knocked silly by the "Dukes" in the very first encounter. In 1927 it was a different story with New Castle bouncing on the "Dukes" in the first game of the elimination tourney and coming through with a 17 to 13 victory. This is 1928, or else the writer has been doing a Rip Van Winkle and now we find the New Castle boys face to face with the Duquesne High team for the third straight time.

The Duquesne team this year with practically the same outfit that dropped to New Castle last year has been a wonderful combination, and after cleaning up on their section, trampled Dormont, Connellsville and Braddock for the right to enter the finals. New Castle's victims in their quest for more glory were Butler, Monaca and Monessen.

Kowallis Is Threat

In William Kowallis the "Dukes" have a forward who is ranked among the best in the W. P. I. A. L. and if the writer can remember correctly this youngster made it unpleasant for the New Castle boys last year, maybe it was because his brother "Steve" Kowallis was playing alongside of him, and maybe it wasn't that reason, but "Steve" is gone this year and William or "Bill" must carry on alone. Kocheran is the running mate to Kowallis at forward for the Duquesne team and this name has a familiar ring, yes, he was a member of the Duquesne team of 1927, and he is a player of tested ability. As the writer glances over the Duquesne lineup another name appears to haunt his memory that of Ciesznski a running guard I believe.

Incidentally New Castle High also has three veterans of the 1927 team that carried through to the championship after defeating Duquesne, Scottdale and Connellsville. Captain Paul Reider, "Tony" Ostrosky and Arthur Sillman, all of them tried and true veterans.

The game tomorrow night is in reality the third of the series between the two schools and it should be vastly interesting. The championship of the W. P. I. A. L. hangs in the balance.

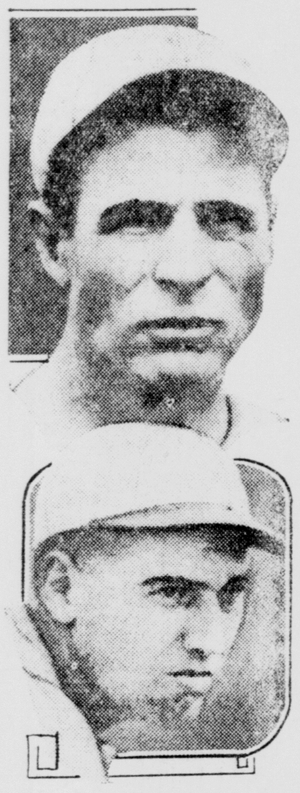
Maybe next year the W. P. I. A. L. committee will let New Castle and Duquesne High play a game at the Pitt Stadium regardless of winning any sectional honors, for the simple reason that it is getting to be a habit.

Outcome Is Toss-up

As for trying to pick the winner tomorrow night, the writer has always been adverse to foolish things and really the thing is a toss-up. You could pick either team and still be right. One fact stands out today, the game at the Pitt Stadium tomorrow night is going to be of high class flavor and may the best team win.

There is mighty little to choose from in selecting the best team, both teams have had successful floor seasons and as for experience they shape up on an even keel.

Hope of Browns



If these two new pitchers come through the St. Louis Browns may climb in the American league standings. Top is Sam Gray and below is John Ogden. The two were snapped in training at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Special Train To Leave At 5 O'clock

The New Castle special train over the Pennsylvania Lines to Pittsburgh tomorrow night for the New Castle-Duquesne game at the Pitt stadium, will leave this city at five o'clock, it was announced today by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner. This is a change of half an hour in the time of special trains previous to this date.

The special will return from Pittsburgh at 10:15 o'clock. Indications point to a healthy sized special train pulling out of New Castle for Pittsburgh. Several coaches have been reserved for the high school students and they will be supervised by the faculty of the high school.

Tickets for the special are going fast is the word from the P. R. R. station, Sporting Goods Store and high school.

New Castle has been given but 1,500 tickets for the game tomorrow night, and they sell for 50 cents each. At the stadium the tickets will be $1.00 per copy. Thus it behooves those intending to go to get their tickets here prior to noon on Friday. At the stadium there will be but 300 tickets sold, said a member of the W. P. I. A. L. committee. Duquesne High has been granted 1,500 tickets also.

The stadium seats but 3,300 people. Gardner said today that the sale of tickets for the New Castle-Duquesne game will stop at 12 o'clock, noon, on Friday, and that the surplus at that time will be shipped to Pittsburgh and Duquesne. The Duquesne officials have asked that New Castle send them all tickets that are not sold here.

If you are going to Pittsburgh for the game tomorrow night, you must get your tickets by noon on Friday.

Wampum Indies Take Victory

The Wampum Indies showed to good advantage in their game with the Beaver Falls Art Tile company basketball team. The final score was 57 to 40.

The Indies began a merry assault on the hoops and at the end of the first quarter led by a score of 17 to 6. At the end of the first half the Wampum boys were leading 31 to 13. The work of Hennon and Patterson was a bright feature of the game. "Chink" Roskoski, has been added to the Wampum roster and his work in the game was of high standard.

Tonight the Indies will play the strong Armstrong Corks of Beaver Falls at the Wampum Opera House floor. The Corks are leading the Beaver Valley Industrial League.

The summary:

Wampum Indies 57		Art Tiles 40
Patterson	F	Cushnie
Hennon	F	Balph

Dunn To Tutor Emmett Rocco

Cumo Believes Dunn Can Do Plenty To Help Rocco Up Ladder

KULKIN TO BOX SMALL NECK HERE

By ED. FRITZ

As soon as Emmett Rocco, tarzan of the Connoquenessing fully recovers from a siege of La Grippe, the big boy will accompany Joe Cumo his manager to Cleveland, where the Ellwood City heavyweight will be tutored and trained by Jimmie Dunn.

Cumo will enter into an agreement with Dunn whereby Dunn is to not only teach but to train Rocco and to also help him make matches with topnotch heavyweights. In other words it will be a joint management of the Ellwood City lad.

Should Cumo fulfill his intentions there is no question but that Dunn will be able to impart considerable of his fistic knowledge to Emmett who is a 180-pound topnotch possibility. During his career he has shown that he has latent possibilities.

He stopped such veterans as Joe Burke and Romero Rojas and in connection with the latter bout Cumo declares that the Ellwood City heavyweight turned the trick in five rounds and Johnny Risko who outpointed Jack Sharkey could not stop the big Chilean.

Cumo's proposed trip to Cleveland has resulted not only from the Risko victory over Sharkey but also because Dunn trained Emmett for his match with Jack McAuliffe who weighed 216 pounds. Emmett beat McAuliffe and in addition, gave him a good pasting.

Dunn has wonderful facilities for training at Cleveland and while there Emmett will have big, rough training partners. He has lacked training partners here and has had to pull punches every time he went into

Ask Motorists To Take Students On Pittsburgh Trip

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner of New Castle High said today that there were several high school students desirous of witnessing the New Castle-Duquesne game at the Pitt stadium tomorrow night who cannot afford to ride the special train.

Gardner has asked New Castle fans intending to drive to Pittsburgh, with any extra space in the machine, to take a student or two along with them. If you are so inclined, Gardner asks that you call either 630 or 1388 and make arrangements with either Mr. Orth or himself.

New Peril From Nippon Looms In Net Circles

By JACK SORDS.

Another tennis star of the first magnitude seems to have risen in the eastern skies.

Another name must be placed with those of Zenso Shimizu, Takeichi Harada and Ichiya Kumagae, sons of Nippone.

It is the name of Tamio Abe, newest of the tennis-playing children of the Rising Sun.

Abe bids fair to be the greatest of Japanese net stars and that is saying a great deal, for in late years the little yellow men have been well represented in the racquet sport.

Abe is now in America preparing for his country's drive on the Davis cup. He comes to the western world with many honors on his slim shoulders. Among his titles are those of national doubles and national singles champion of Japan.

Tamio Abe is an ever-smiling, spectacled fellow who has an astonishing amount of power and tennis skill in his body.

With the nervous vitality and eager ambition of his race, Tamio Abe has already plunged into tennis competition in this country. He started off with an exhibition match with Helen Wills.

Sport Ritticisms
By BILL RITT

A group of Chicago women, after a bit of bickering, have okehed a film in which Babe Ruth is shown masticating a dime's worth of sailor's delight. They probably realized that you can't hit 60 home runs sustained only by a bag of peanut brittle.

Mr. Ruth, it is our said task to record, is given to gnawing at odd moments on large, black sections of eating tobacco. It is a habit of the old days when cuspidor was still in the dictionary and a gaboon a household necessity.

No barbershop was complete without its brass floor apparatus in the old days when a cheekfull of chaw bulged in some of our best society.

Not having seen the cinema under discussion we look forward to it as a view of the Bambino biting his way through a section of long-shoreman's special is an awe inspiring sight. When Babe's big jaws chew about a bit of hip weed the effect is like viewing a landslide in the Rockies.

The popularity of plug tobacco began to fade when flasks ousted the weed as an inhabitant of hip pockets.

The folks who would like to veto Babe Ruth's jaw gymnastics are in for a still bigger shock when they hear President Coolidge may spend his vacation in the great smokies.

Enon I. O. O. F. Team Defeats Mahoningtown

Mahoningtown A. A. Loses To Enon Lodge Team By Score Of 39 To 28

ENON VALLEY, March 15.—In a contest featured by fast passing, and at times close defensive work, the local I. O. O. F. quintet took over the Mahoningtown A. A. five. This win gives the locals two out of three games of their series.

Diffley, Parks and Swineheart were the outstanding performers in the visitors' lineup. The Mahoningtown outfit played a splendid game but were unable to cope with the fast I. O. O. F. offensive attack.

The entire local squad played good basketball with Teddy Zeh leading in points, dropping the ball through the hoops for seven field goals.

Riddle, I. O. O. F. center, was forced out of the game with a badly wrenched shoulder.

Lineup and summary:

I. O. O. F. 39		Mahoning A. A. 28

Trade School Quint Has Successful Year

"Well, I'm Here!"

So says the Babe as he surveys the spring training activities at St. Petersburg, Fla. Mr. G. Herman Ruth certainly looks fit, doesn't he, though? And that smile seems to assure many a sizzling four-base knock forthcoming this season.

New Castle Trade School Team Loses But One Game In Twelve Starts This Season

Johns And Kenst High Scorers; Zelienople Only Team To Hold Victory

By ANTHONY KURDUPSKI

New Castle Trade School basketball team recently closed its 1927-28 floor season with a brilliant victory over Zelienople High. The Traders had a brilliant season and won 11 out of 12 games played.

The New Castle Trade School had its first basketball team this season. In other years the combined schools, Ben Franklin and the Trade School formed one team known as Ben Franklin Junior High team. This practice was discarded prior to the opening of the past season. Leroi Norton was the coach of the Trade School team.

The victory of the Traders over Zelienople evened an old score, the Zelienople team of the W. P. I. A. L. was the only team to defeat the Trade School team this year. The Trade School passers during the past season defeated Bessemer High, the County League champions, and all of the New Castle High class teams.

Captain Henry Kenst and William "Bill" Johns had the honor of leading the team in joints scored this year. Johns had a total of 50 field goals and Kenst rang up 31 buckets. Irvin Stewart and Jenkins the team pivot men also had high scores for the year. Stewart dropped 29 field goals and Jenkins accounted for 22 field goals.

James Lewis, faculty manager of the team, scheduled might hard games, but the opponents failed to give the Traders much opposition.

FOUR GREYBEARDS TO THINK FOR ATHLETICS

Probably the greatest collection of matured brains combined with ability ever gathered on the board of strategy of a ball team will try to guide the Philadelphia Athletics to a pennant this year. Wise old Connie Mack, manager, has retained the clever Ty Cobb and added two of the smartest veterans in the sport to his fold in Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins.

Cardinals Formidable Under Bill McKechnie

Former Pittsburgh Pirate Leader Thinks Cards Will Have Great Season

Harold Haid, Former New Castle Boy, Is Trying For Pitcher's Berth

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

AVON PARK, Fla., March 15.—If a grammarian were rendering a report on the St. Louis Cardinals, he probably would do so under the following concise terms: gender, male; mood, interrogative; tense, very. He might not be so far wrong, at that.

The Cards, as I was prepared to see them, were a somewhat interrogative proposition. They still are to me, in spite of Bill McKechnie's reassurances today as the club was preparing to leave for St. Petersburg to play the Braves. And the situation must remain just a bit tense until such time as the internes from the emergency ward pack up their scalpels and call the thing a cure.

As to that, some of the returns on this matter haven't started out yet.

Many Cripples

The human uncertainties yet to be accounted for and the various organs affected are listed herewith:

Bob O'Farrell, former manager and star catcher: arm.

Tommy Thevenow, star shortstop: leg.

Chick Hafey, regular outfielder: eyes.

Ray Blades, ditto: knee.

Rabbit Maranville, elderly shortfielder: himself.

The Cardinals, viewed merely from the standpoint of names and not from that of a convalescent ward, are quite a ball club. In fact, McKechnie, back again for another managerial whirl, thinks he has the coming champion and Burt Shotton, of the Phillies, agrees with him.

Yet the fact will not down that Thevenow's broken leg has yet to be proven sound; that the bad arm which kept O'Farrell out of many games last year hasn't been adequately tested here, if at all; that Hafey's many operations last winter may or may not have proved beneficial and that Blade's injured knee is responding so slowly that he may not really know its true condition until June.

While they have been thinking it over, a juvenile outfield composed of John Martin, Houston, Texas; Walter Roettger of Houston and St. Louis, and Howard Williamson of Syracuse and Fort Worth, has been plying its trade. They haven't been hitting any too well, but McKechnie and the entire outfit swears by Roettger and not at him. He once deemed himself a pitcher when with the Yankees.

"Don't hit" Douthit, a plausible specimen in 1926, still is about the premises, but he will have to hit or take the consequences.

There is certain to be a lot of outfield jugglery on the Cardinals unless Hafey is ready to go, pronto, and until Blades recovers, if ever, and Douthit starts to hit, if at all.

One naturally expects Thevenow to laugh off his broken leg in time, but immediately to the right of him is Lester Bell at third base, and that young man didn't do altogether right by our Nellie in 1927.

Frisch Sets Pace

They can't go wrong on the opposite side of the infield, however, with Frank Frisch at second base and Jim Bottomley, of Nokomis, Ill., at first.

They constitute just 50 per cent of a great infield, provided the other two men are right. If they aren't, Frisch and Bottomley constitute just 50 per cent of nothing. Heine Schuble, a fighting kid from Houston, who came up from Danville last year to replace the injured Thevenow, still is in there trying. He may have studied in the meantime, but no one is betting any American money that way. The perennial George Toporcer is back again, of course, or perform on both.

That's a very sound infield—provided Thevenow is ready to start the season.

There is little the matter with the catching, even if O'Farrell does fail to deliver 100 per cent, and nothing at all the matter with the pitching. Grover Alexander is aged, in truth, but the youth doesn't live who wouldn't trade the years to be Alex.

In addition, Jess Haines, Phillipsburg, O., is right at the top of his form and the word is that Flint Rhem has decided in favor of bearing down and against kidding around. Rhem is a pretty fair pitcher, even when he doesn't want to be.

Fred Frankhouse, the Houston right-hander who went wild at the close of last season, completes the "starting staff". Art Reinhart, Waco, is back again for relief roles, but McKechnie isn't thinking about Art these days. He is all keyed up about John Berly, Spartansburg, S. C., righthander, who would have shut the Red Sox out with one hit in five innings the other day except for a bad bouncing ball.

Haid in Fold

Carlisle Littlejohn of Irene, Tex., also has caught McKechnie's vagrant eye, and he thinks pretty well, too of Harold Smith of Creston, Ia., and Houston. Sylvester Johnson, back again, this time from Syracuse; Harold Haid of Syracuse and Altoona, and Allyn Stout of Syracuse and Webster, Mo., simply are doing the best they can, as I gather it. As for Ed. Dyer, with the club before, he has shown nothing to date except a sore arm.

O'Farrell's assistants or O'Farrell's successors, according to the way matters eventuate, will be Frank Gibson, obtained from Boston this winter, and Manusco, up from Syracuse. If a fourth catcher is carried he will be Virgil Davis of Buffalo and Birmingham.

I know this to be true because there are only four catchers with the outfit. Manusco, so far, has taken the play away from everybody. He is hitting and throwing very well.

The Cards are certain contenders, regardless of what happens. And if they can produce 100 per cent of their strength, they might do no worse than first, as the saying goes.

A Former Olympic Star — By Feg Murray

Copyright, 1928, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

When the runners toe the mark for the 800 and 1,500-meter runs at the Olympic Games in Amsterdam next July and August a former champion will be with them in spirit and as he reads the accounts of the events later in the papers will live over in his mind those same two races as they occurred in the 1908 games in London and four years later in Stockholm.

For Melvin W. Sheppard at present the director of recreational activities in a big New York department store was the Peltzer and the Hahn of 20 years ago and in winning the Olympic 800 and 1500-meter runs at the London games did something that only three other runners ever accomplished.

Besides winning his two magnificent victories at London in 1908 and setting two new Olympic records (1.52 4-5 for the 800 and 4.3 2-5 for the 1500) Mel was also a member of the winning United States relay team and thus scored 11 1-4 points alone for his country. Four years later at Stockholm, Sheppard finished second in the mighty Ted Meredith in the 800-meter run and actually broke his own record of four years before but Meredith ran the distance in 1:51.9! Mel later placed sixth in the 1500 meters.

"Shep" won the National A. A. U. half-mile championship in 1906, '07, '08, '11 and '12 and still holds the American record for 600 yards at 1 minute, 10 4-5 seconds. He has a son who he hopes will some day win further honors for the family on the cinder path.

Feg Murray Says.

"Speaking of St. Patrick's day" said the ground keeper of the Erie Golf and Country club, "I find that it's the high heels of the lady players that have more to do than anything else with the wearin' o' the greens."

Legal Action In Mandell Fight Is Being Threatened

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 15.—Threatened legal action loomed today in the promoters' war over the services of Sammy Mandell, as a result of the action of Sammy's manager, Eddie Kane, in signing Mandell to defend the lightweight crown against Jimmy McLarnin on May 1 at the Polo grounds under the promotion of Tex Rickard.

Jim Mullen, Chicago promoter, declared he would not only take steps to have Mandell suspended by the Illinois boxing commission and the National Boxing association and his $5,000 forfeit seized but would institute injunction proceedings against the title fight in New York.

Here And There In Sports' Land

By ED. FRITZ

Frank Taberski of Schnectady, N. Y., advanced another step toward retention of the national pocket billiard championship by defeating Onofrio Lauri, New York state champ, 125-114, in 25 innings at Chicago.

Arthur Newton, British runner, still holds the lead in the coast-to-coast marathon, having won the 11th lap, of 51.7 miles, in seven hours and 50 minutes yesterday. His elapsed time is 61 hours, 23 minutes. He has covered 397.4 miles. Lin Dilks is still among the leaders, according to last reports.

Tex Rickard put one over on Jim Mullen, Chicago, by matching Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, against Jimmie McLarnin, Pacific coast lightweight. Mandell will defend his title in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden, New York, May 17.

Fight fans should get the treat of their lives here Monday night when Mickie Dugan meets Johnny Kusic and Frankie Rio battles Bud Bollenger. There will be two other bouts. Bollenger is fast, speedy and can punch, and the same is true of Kusic. It looks as though the Cleveland boys have their work cut out for them. Rio has had things easy here, but Monday night he will be facing the best boy he has boxed to date, while Kusic is the best 130-pounder Youngstown has. It is a toss-up as to who will win in the semi-final and main bouts.

John Van Ryn and Kenneth Appel of Princeton were the victims in the second round of the national indoor tennis meet at New York, being vanquished by William Aydelotte and Perrine Rockefellow, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4. Van Ryn and Appel were the first seeded pair in the meet.

The Savoia Juniors will meet the Smiths in the preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock. The Juniors are laying claim to the junior championship of the city.

TRADE SCHOOL QUINT HAS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Second team include Leo and Leonard Mariacher, Jenkins, Owens, Hahn and Joe Waggoner showed up well this year. In the matter of foul shooting the Trade School boys were excellent. Captain Henry Kenst led the team in foul tossing with 25 points, Johns was second with 17 fouls.

Mr. Martine, principal and director of the New Castle Trade School, has plenty of praise for the Trade School boys in their first year of organization and predicts that the school will continue to turn out good teams for years to come. Coach Norton also pays the team a high tribute for their work during the season.

Following is the 1927-28 record of the New Castle Trade School team:

STOY-CORBETT BOUT TONIGHT

Featherweights To Box Ten Rounds In Youngstown Ring

YOUNGSTOWN, March 15.—Rosey Stoy and Al Corbett, featherweights, clash in a 10-round bout at the Rayen-Wood auditorium here tonight and fistic fans need not be told that they will see a good scrap as both have appeared here. Stoy won the decision over Corbett in the first encounter and Corbett hopes to reverse the tables tonight.

The battle with Corbett is a do-or-die effort with Stoy. A win over Al means that the Lancaster southpaw will make another effort to get into the important money, while a loss means that he will quit for good and all.

As far as the records of these lads are concerned they are just about even up, as both of them have met the best in the country at their weight.

Ray Carroll, former amateur champion, will make his bow to local fans as a profession with K. O. Conley of Pittsburgh. They both scale well over the 180-pound.

Pickles Donahue and Al Christy will put on their skit once more. They will weigh in at 158.

Georgie Ross and Young Billy Wallace will strut their stuff at 130.

One other bout will complete the prelims, all of which will be over the four-round route.

DUNN TO TUTOR EMMETT ROCCO

a training jaunt which affected his hitting.

Rocco has wanted to fight Risko for months but has not been able to land a match though promoters have offered to stage it, according to Cumo. When Rocco arrives in Cleveland a campaign to match the pair will be started.

Monday night at the Old Armory, the Jolly Fistic circus will show four bouts in one ring and from what the fans know here of the fighters who are to perform the Standing Room Only sign should be prominent by its presence.

Rio is one of the fastest pieces of human machinery to appear here but he will have to go some to beat Bud Bollenger who like Frankie can box and punch. This should be the fastest fight staged here in years.

Several months ago Johnny Kusick handed a whipping to Mickie Dugan who fought U. S. Carpentier here. Being anxious to even the count the Hungarian with the Irish name will strut his best stuff to flatten Kusick.

Emil Small Neck and Young Kulkin, light-heavyweights will box in a six round preliminary. Small Neck is tall and rangy and has been a winner. Kulkin believes that he can stop Small Neck in a couple of rounds.

Oscar Gardner who is built like a cement block and Joe Borden who dishes out gasoline and wears a moustache, though he's only a kid will clash in the first six rounder and if their training bouts augur correctly, there should be plenty of punches served.

Pioneer

Hudson has pioneered many of the great advancements which make American motor cars the greatest dollar value of any commodity in the world.

It introduced and popularized such body types as the Sedan, Town Car, Speedster and Cabriolet.

It invented the Coach, which turned the entire industry to closed cars.

It invented the exclusive Super-Six principle which is still the industry's ideal of motor smoothness.

It developed the companion invention to the Super-Six principle which turns waste heat to power. Together they combine the highest known efficiency in power generation and power transmission.

Hudson, too, invented the patented spring suspension, which makes these cars the easiest riding in the world.

A Great Today and Tomorrow
because of a Great Yesterday

Hudson's leadership of mode is but another expression of the value that has been the first principle of Hudson manufacture since the beginning.

The resources, which in a moderate-priced car attained the highest mechanical possibilities of the day, have been brilliantly employed to create and lead a new vogue in beauty, comfort and luxurious appointment.

The wealth of quality detail you see, feel and touch—and every refinement that surrounds you—is typical and expressive of the quality that Hudson gives where character must guarantee the unseen values.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 15.—Speculative interest at the beginning of trading today centered around a few of the pool specialties which have been stirred up so violently since the turn of the week. Radio was again under selling pressure and dipped a few points, but American Linseed moved sharply against the badly-trapped short interest, and new advances of from 2 to 7 points were scored by Wright Aeronautical, Vanadium, Texas, and other specialties supposedly harboring a large short interest.

Heavy settlements at the banks were expected to be completed without the necessity of calling in funds from the call loan market. Wall street heard that another 150,000 share block of stock had been taken out of the market which, combined with the fact that Chicago is to operate its own call loan market, offered a reasonable basis for only a moderate increase in broker's loans here, if not an unexpected decrease such as reported last Thursday.

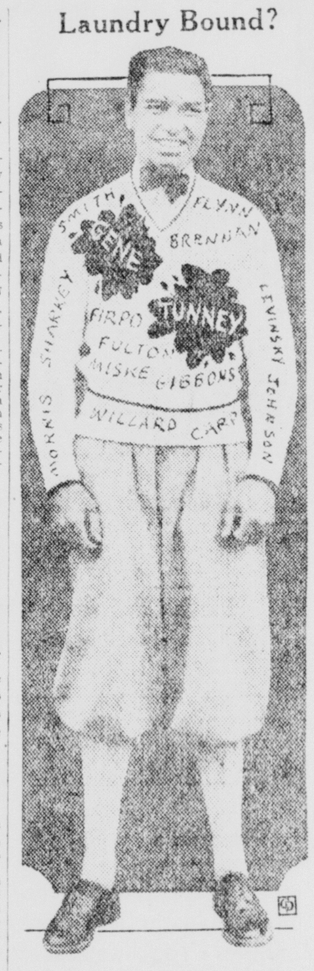
Laundry Bound?



There are those who still contend that Jack Dempsey won't really quit fighting until he has a chance to wipe out the two blots caused by Gene Tunney's wins over him. However, they seem to be more worried about it than Jack, himself, judging by this grin.

To Meet Next?

Tom Heeney, New Zealand, conqueror of Jack Delaney, above, and Johnny Risko, Cleveland, winner over Jack Sharkey in the heavyweight eliminations tourney, who may now meet in a final fight for the right to meet Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion.

Costigan Resigns Commission Post

President Coolidge Accepts Resignation Of Tariff Commission Member

LAST OF WOODROW WILSON APPOINTEES

(International News Service)

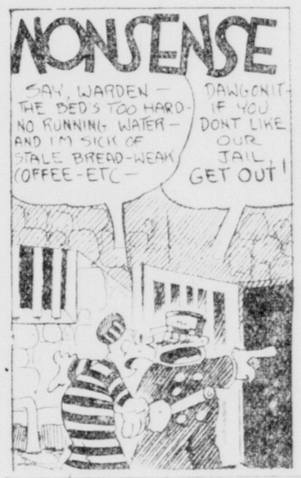
WASHINGTON, March 15.—Official Washington gasped today over the resignation from the Tariff Commission of Commissioner Edward P. Costigan, Democrat and last of the original Wilson appointees. President Coolidge accepted the resignation.

Costigan's resignation, accompanied by the publication of a letter he wrote Senator Joseph T. Robinson (D) of Arkansas, replete with personal attacks on his fellow members of the commission and President Coolidge himself, was the culmination of a controversy over the activities of the tariff body for more than two years.

President Coolidge's course in refusing to act when "decisive" evidence showed that certain tariff rates should be lowered, Costigan said in his letter to Robinson, "helped to wreck the commission's usefulness."

The three commissioners who compose the commission with Costigan, he referred to as "the Marvin group" who worked steadily for "higher rates and against important reductions, and reckless on occasions in their treatment of facts and law."

"Manipulation of the commission since 1922, he declared, "is but part of the total picture of present day Washington making up an era which history may yet summarize as the age of Daugherty, Fall and Sinclair.



Coolidge-Kellogg Nicaraguan Policy Bitterly Attacked

Renewed Attack By Senate On Nicaraguan Policy Is Brewing

General Sandino Says United States Must Withdraw Marines To Insure Peace

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 15.—A renewed attack on the Coolidge-Kellogg policy in Nicaragua was brewing in the senate today.

It was expected to be touched off by the communications from General Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader, which were transmitted to the foreign relations committee by a special correspondent of the Nation magazine.

In a document addressed directly to the senate, Sandino, characterized as a bandit" by the state department, warned he would not be responsible for loss of American lives if the marines were not withdrawn from Nicaragua.

"I shall never recognize a government imposed by a foreign power," Sandino added.

In a message addressed to the recent Havana Pan-American congress, Sandino declared "President Coolidge must, in the eyes of the world, bear the responsibility for the consequences" in Nicaragua.

Rebel Against Invasion

"I protest against the hypocrisy of Coolidge, who speaks of good will and sends an army to murder Nicaraguans," he said.

Sandino, replying to a communication from Admiral Sellers, commander of the special service squadron in Nicaragua, declared on February 3, that only withdrawal of marines could end the present fighting. Sellers had warned he intended to use "the vast resources our government has placed at our disposal" if Sandino did not enter a peace agreement.

"Today it is the entire Nicaraguan people who fight to drive out the foreign invasion from my country," said Sandino.

"The only way this struggle can be ended is by the immediate withdrawal of the invading forces from our territory; the substitution for the present president of some Nicaraguan citizen not a candidate for the presidency, and the supervision of the coming elections by Latin-American representatives instead of American marines."

State Department officials are conferring with Senate leaders over a plan to be followed to assure American supervision of the Nicaraguan elections in October. The Nicaraguan lower House rejected the McCoy plan, much to the surprise of the department.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Did a little roaming Wednesday up to a place that perhaps you know, and perhaps you may not. If you never were there, take time some afternoon to go over and see something that will reach way inside of you and start the old emotions functioning. I mean the Margaret Henry Home.

Somehow or other those youngsters up there have an appeal that gets you. With the Siamese Twins and Speer Marousis, I went up there just at noon and the kiddies were at lunch. More than 50 of them, sitting up like little men and women eating their meal and the order prevailing was remarkable.

But somehow or other it doesn't seem just right to me. Every youngster that size has a right to get jelly smeared all over his face, or to upset a glass of milk or to get his hands tangled up in an open faced pie. And every one of them has a right to a mother who fusses when Johnny or Mary gets all smeared up but who wipes the jelly or the pie from recalcitrant hands.

The Margaret Henry youngsters are all fed well and look the picture of health, and the people of New Castle are wonderfully kind and all that sort of thing, but a mother's love is one thing that all the money in the world can't buy.

It was a day of remembrance up at the home. It was Miss Margaret Henry's birthday, and also the 33rd anniversary of the day she started the work. The home is well cared for now by public subscription, but there was a time when Miss Henry didn't know just where the money was coming from to buy rolled oats and frocks for the kiddies.

But she kept on plugging away, with little money or equipment, working a little harder when times were bad and then one day the sun came out and the citizens of the city provided funds for the maintenance of the home.

I don't know just what age Miss Henry is, but I hope she sees 50 more birthdays. When the day does come for her to lay aside all those little stockings and dresses and dishes, and join another host of people, it seems to me that who ever has charge of the distribution of harps and crowns will have especially bright ones for her. And if she gets a star in her crown for every little boy or girl she has mothered, it's going to be too heavy for her to wear. For certainly she has followed the words of the Great Teacher who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me."

Some day when you have time visit the Margaret Henry Home for Children. There may be a lump in your throat when you see all those bright little kiddies up there, but you'll come away satisfied that here is one place where wour money is being well used.

The Siamese Twins made an unusual hit with the youngsters. It so happened that both Daisy and Violet had been given a linotype slug with their name on when they visited the News. As they sat in the playroom of the home taking turns holding the youngsters, every boy and girl wanted a souvenir of the occasion. And somebody got those linotype slugs as souvenirs. One youngster wanted to cut off a curl for a souvenir.

And it's all right about the linotype slugs for Clarence Davis, the foreman of the News composing room, has already had two more made off for the twins.

One of the girls in the News office is rather peeved. Somebody called her "cute" which is true, I have always thought, but this young lady insists that cute means that a girl is bow-legged and she—well, anyway, she says she isn't cute.

ACCIDENT VICTIM ON WAY TO RECOVERY

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., March 15.—After lying unconscious for three days in his home here, Flem Hallman, aged 27, an employe of the A. S. and T. P. company here, spoke this morning for the first time since he was struck on the head by a heavy wrench in the mill. Doctors believe now that their long fight to save the life of Hallman has met with success.

Hallman was struck behind the ear by a large wrench which flew down from a boiler and hit him when a cog slipped and released the heavy piece of steel. He first began to regain consciousness yesterday and this morning was able to say a few words to his wife.

The Wisconsin man who dwelt 79 years in the United States before he was naturalized evidently now desires to impress St. Peter with his home address.—The Lansing State Journal.

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.
